THE SUPERIOR COURT SESSION

Will Open in This City Next Monday—Judge McLaughlin
May Preside

The fall civil jury session of the superior court will begin at the court house on Gorham street on next Monday morning at 10 o'clock and the presiding judge will in all probability be John D. McLaughlin. This session is an extremely long one, lasting twelve weeks and there are a large number of Lowell cases to be decided, the list of which is given below. As a rule this session of the court tries only the suits that are for $1000 or more. The local cases are:

GEORGE B. SPENGLER OF DETROIT SAYS

THAT HE KILLED TWO GIRLS AND INJURED OTHERS

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—If the story which George Brown Spengler told last night proves to be true, the mystery of a crime which has puzzled Detroit police and detectives for nearly three years has been cleared up.

Spengler, a laborer, 30 years old, and described as a moral pervert, was arrested in connection with the murder of 12-year-old Matilda Reisv, whose mutilated body was found in an alley near her home last Tuesday night. He confessed not only to having killed and mistreated this child but told the police he also mistreated and murdered Helen Brown, 11 years old, whose body was found in a coal yard on Dec. 12, 1909.

Four other girls have been attacked in Detroit in the last 13 months; one of them was permanently injured and others less seriously hurt. Spengler admits responsibility for two of these offenses. In each case the child was attacked as she lay asleep in her parents' home.

The Garden on the Grounds Surrounding the Lowell Jail is a Most Attractive Place

GARDEN AT LOWELL JAIL IN THORNDIKE STREET

One has not truly seen Lowell until he has visited the grounds of the Middlesex Jail on Thorndike street, for the flower garden there forms one of the most strikingly attractive contributions to the beauty of the city that can be desired. While the accompanying photograph will give the reader some limited idea of the wonders of the place, yet it comes a great way from adequately portraying the actual beauty of the various delicately tinted plants which the garden contains.

This delightful exemplification of the art of landscape gardening, about which Mr. Everett kindly escorted a representative of The Sun today, is the fruit of the labor of Captain Atkinson, a man who possesses a remarkably broad knowledge of gardening in all its phases and who has been at the institution for eight years. When Captain Atkinson first came to the Middlesex county jail to take up a position there, this beautiful feature of the grounds was a mere patch of ground through his skill and love of the work, he made it a reality and turned what was an ordinary lawn into one of the most attractive displays of plants of which Lowell can boast. Mr. Atkinson described in detail the nature of the different species of growth which the spot contains and he is familiar not alone with the more common names of the plants but with their scientific names and botanical significance as well.

Viewed from Thorndike street, the garden affords immeasurable pleasure to passersby. About the entire grounds is a strikingly pretty background of shrubbery, clematis, sunflowers and hollyhocks. In the very center is a large circular bed of red geraniums surrounded by a border of feverfew. Near the fence are two cypresses and a six-pointed star between them. Geraniums of different hue make up the centers of these and the outer portions of the star comprise athenian and sweet allium, or "little gem." On either side of this display is seen a long bed of California petunias and verbenas and directly in back of the star and toward the center of the enclosure is a long hillock on which are the letters "M. C. J." with a representation of the old fashioned style of

Divorced Wife of Prof. Michael Iatros Committed Suicide by Taking Gas

Miss Mabel A. Fogg, divorced wife of Professor Michael Iatros, committed suicide last night at the office of Dr. Otis Allen, 226 Merrimack street, where she had been employed for some time as assistant to the dentist, by inhaling illuminating gas.

Deceased, whose age was 30 years, 1 month and 25 days, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Fogg of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Warren of Conway, N. H., and Mrs. Adella Perkins of Lynn, as well as a brother, Charles C. Fogg of this city.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE IN LAWRENCE

Number of Operatives Resumed Positions—Haywood to Have a Body Guard

LAWRENCE, Oct. 3.—The 24-hour textile strike which ended Tuesday morning in this city, is to stay ended. The central committee of the I. W. W. last night decided this and after a closed session Archie Adamson gave out the following statement:

"The central committee has concluded to keep those in the mills that are at work and that those who have been discriminated against shall stay at home quietly. Everybody will, however, prepare for action when such action becomes necessary."

Twice yesterday the continuation of peace was threatened. The fact of the postponement of the trial to Oct. 14 alone was enough to set some of the better heads to declaring "another day, we'll all strike."

Some of the mills took back many of the operatives who were refused work yesterday because of their participation in Monday's 24-hour strike in protest against the imprisonment of Etor and Giovanniotti. There still remained about 1500 employees who considered themselves locked out on account of their activity in the Etor demonstration. The leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World were undecided as to what would be done to protect the unemployed operatives but for the present they will be supported by the organization. Final disposition of the matter is expected to be made at a mass meeting next Sunday.

Not an Arrest
Last night, however, all was peace and peace with the prospect of continuance for awhile.

W. D. Haywood was in Lawrence today. The industrial leaders said that Haywood had consented to a bodyguard after receiving threatening letters.

Peace May Be Permanent
It was said last night that boards of trade in other cities have been offering inducements to some of the mills to leave Lawrence as a solution of the industrial problem.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN A WITNESS

Called Before the Senate Committee to Tell About the Campaign Funds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—J. P. Morgan was the first important witness to testify today before the Clapp committee investigating campaign funds. His appearance, close upon George R. Shelden's sensational testimony of yesterday when the treasurer of the republican committee for the present campaign and the last swore that the late Cornelius N. Bliss had shown him records which bore evidence that Mr. Morgan's firm was one of four which had contributed $100,000 each to the republican war chest of 1904, was expected to develop more testimony along that line.

Mr. Morgan arrived last night, took apartments at a downtown hotel, spent the evening quietly and early today was ready to go to Capitol hill to testify before the committee.

One other witness was on the list for today. He is Judge Charles D. Duell, assistant treasurer of the republican campaign fund in 1904. The committee wanted to ask Judge Duell if he had seen any records showing the names of any large contributors to the republican fund in that year.

Mr. Morgan reached the committee room accompanied by his son-in-law, Herbert L. Satterlee. The financier tucked at his moustache as he took his seat and watched the members of the committee closely.

"Give the stenographer your name, please," said Chairman Clapp.

"John Pierpont Morgan,"

"Your address?"

"219 Madison avenue, New York."

"Your business?"

"Banker."

Chairman Clapp called Morgan's attention to a published article by Charles Edward Russell charging that President Roosevelt had demanded that Mr. Morgan raise $100,000 for his campaign and that Wayne MacVeagh had been present when Mr. Morgan talked with the White House over the telephone.

"Do you remember any such incident?" asked Senator Clapp.

"Nothing whatever," replied Mr. Morgan emphatically.

"I never corresponded over the telephone, telegraph or by mail with President Roosevelt that I know of," Mr. Morgan added, "nor with any one at the White House."

"Did you make any contribution to the republican national campaign of 1904?"

Mr. Morgan adjusted his glasses and looked at a paper.

"In October, 1904, I gave $100,000; on Nov. 1, I gave another $20,000."

"Any more?"

"No, that is all I know of."

"I could be supposed the contribution was paid to Cornelius N. Bliss as treasurer of the republican committee. To whom was the second contribution made?"

"I don't remember. It was paid in cash in New York."

Mr. Morgan said he did not know who collected the first or second contributions, but he believed "Mr. Bliss and Mr. Odell got the money." He believed that the bulk of the second contribution went through the national committee but was paid over to the New York state committee.

Mr. Morgan could not recall contributions in 1904 by his associates.

"Did you contribute in 1904 to the congressional campaign?" asked Senator Clapp.

"I recall no other contribution that year."

"What contributions did you make in 1908?"

"The only contribution I made in 1908 was $10,000 to Mr. Shelden. He said he made no contributions to the congressional fund that year."

"I remember Mr. Sherman called on me once," he said, "but I can find no record of any contribution. If there was one made it was insignificant."

"Did you make any contribution to the pre-convention campaign of any candidate for president this year?"

"No; I was not even in the country. I know my firm made no contribution."

As Senator Clapp closed his examination Mr. Morgan said emphatically that he was "sure there is no truth in the story of a telephone request for funds from President Roosevelt."

Senator Paynter asked Mr. Morgan if the $20,000 was part of the so-called Harriman fund raised for the New York state committee.

"I have no recollection," said Mr. Morgan, "that I have made in my own mind that it was part of that state fund."

"Your understanding was that the $20,000 went to the national committee but that it was really paid over to the state committee?" suggested Senator Paynter.

"Yes; I desired to have anything to do with it unless the money was paid to the national committee," said Mr. Morgan.

"It was my understanding that the national committee did not need funds but the state committee was badly in need of money. I had a great deal to do with Mr. Cortelyou during the campaign but I do not know whether he was present at the meeting when the $20,000 contribution was discussed."

Mr. Morgan said his relations with the elder Cornelius N. Bliss had been very intimate; that Mr. Bliss and his father had been associates, he said, and "whenever they wanted anything they sent Mr. Bliss to me."

"Had you supposed that Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou kept from President Roosevelt the fact that you contributed to the campaign fund?"

"I know nothing about that," said Mr. Morgan. "I had not discussed campaign contributions with Mr. Cortelyou in 1904."

When Senator Pomerene took up the examination Mr. Morgan leaned forward in the witness chair with one hand cupped over his ear. But he failed to hear and finally he got down from the witness chair, saying: "Can't I sit down here near you; I can't hear very well."

He took a chair from one of the official stenographers and moved it to within a few feet of Senator Pomerene.

"Were you especially interested in the campaign of 1904?"

"Yes, Mr. Harriman especially interested in that campaign."

"I really don't know."

"Were the insurance companies especially interested in this campaign?"

"I don't know. There was never any concerted action by me with any of the insurance companies in that matter at that time," said Mr. Morgan emphatically.

"Of course Mr. Perkins was a director of the New York Life Insurance Co. and he probably talked with me about their interests but I can't remember any specific conversation."

"Did Mr. Harriman ever tell you he had a talk with Mr. Roosevelt about railroad interests?" asked Senator Pomerene.

"I remember no such conversation," the financier said.

"Mr. Chairman," said Mr. Morgan, "I want to make a statement right here."

"Proceed," said Senator Clapp.

"I want it distinctly understood," said Mr. Morgan emphatically, "that J. P. Morgan & Co. never made a single contribution to a campaign with the promise or expectation of any return in any shape or manner and we never made a subscription unless we thought it for the best interests of the government and the people. We never had a communication from any candidate; we never had any application from any candidate. The only interest we had was in the welfare of the public. We never asked any commitment; we never expected any returns and we never got any."

"During this campaign was there any intention on your part to support the democratic candidate?" asked Senator Pomerene.

"I never heard of it if there was," responded Mr. Morgan smiling. "If we had thought that the election of a democrat was for the best interests of the country we would have contributed to his campaign."

Mr. Morgan, responding to another question about a conference, said he thought he would have been apt to know if there had been a "small conference of large numbers to discuss means to aid Mr. Roosevelt but he had no knowledge of such."

"Did you or Mr. Mellon or Mr. Harriman call on any of the financial men of New York in the interest of the republicans that year?"

"I don't think so."

"Was there at any time a conference among financial interests looking toward the nomination of a democratic candidate who would be suitable to the financial interests of New York?"

"I know of nothing of the kind."

"Were you at the office of the Union Pacific railroad in 1904?"

"No; I never was in that office," responded Mr. Morgan.

"Did you ever meet Mr. Harriman and Mr. Mellon in Mr. Harriman's office to talk over these matters?" asked Senator Pomerene.

Mr. Morgan responded he never had been in Mr. Harriman's office and very seldom talked with Mr. Harriman in that campaign about the political situation. He said he talked with no one representing the "national nominee" except officers of the national committee.

He said Chairman Cortelyou came into his office several times and that the visits were before the contribution of $100,000.

"Was anything said by Mr. Cortelyou as to the amount that they desired to raise?"

"I don't think there was any hint," replied Morgan with a chuckle.

"I think they would have taken anything they could get."

The committee and spectators joined Mr. Morgan in a laugh.

Under questions by Senator Pomerene Mr. Morgan repeated he had been given to understand that the Harriman $200,000 fund was being raised for the state committee but was being given to the national committee.

"And you understood that, so intended for the campaign of the state, the contribution would aid the national campaign, did you?"

"Oh, certainly," said Mr. Morgan. "He did not know of any other funds subscribed during that year to the republican national fund."

"Do you know the amount of money the republican national committee was trying to raise?"

"No; I never asked. My occupation was gone when they got from me what they could."

Mr. Morgan said that $30,000 was all that was given to the 1908 campaign, one contribution being $20,000 and another $10,000. "Those contributions were all under the direction of Mr. Perkins. I speak of those because I remember them. I don't know what Mr. Perkins may have given."

Mr. Morgan knew of no conference of financial leaders in New York to decide who they would support for president in 1908.

"Didn't you remonstrate to anyone when the $200,000 contribution was made that the $100,000 had been pretty liberally?" asked Senator Paynter.

"Oh, I did that originally," said Mr. Morgan laughing. "He added that when 'they came for the $200,000,' he had gotten used to it and didn't object."

"Did Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou express any gratitude because you had consented to give $20,000 after having already given $100,000?"

"No; I never experienced much gratitude in this connection," returned Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Morgan said the second contribution of $20,000 was brought out by "the fear of the effect a democratic victory in New York would have on the country."

"You may be excused for the present," said Chairman Clapp.

"Can I go back to New York?" asked the banker.

"Well call for you if we want you,"

said the chairman.
"You know you are entitled to your expenses for coming down here."
A general laugh went around in which the committee and Mr. Morgan joined heartily.

GLIDDEN AUTO TOUR

Has Been Abandoned for This Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—There will be no Glidden automobile tour this year. This was announced yesterday by the National tour committee of the American Automobile association, which decided to postpone the contest until some time next year.

The principal reason was that many automobilists who wanted to enter the contest did not care to be away from their homes for three weeks just before election. It was also stated that objections had been made to many sections of the proposed route from Detroit to New Orleans. Next year an earlier date will be chosen, and in the meantime changes will be made in the route.

CHELSEA MAN KILLED

Thrown From Wagon in Runaway

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—H. Berkowitz, a dealer in woolen and cotton supplies, living at 182 Second street, Chelsea, was killed, Harry Sobolski, also of Chelsea, suffered a severe nervous shock and minor injuries, and many pedestrians had narrow escapes from injury when a horse driven by Berkowitz became frightened yesterday on Harrison avenue in the heart of Chinatown and dashed up the avenue as far as Nassau street.

Berkowitz was thrown to the pavement, landing on his head. He was dead before he could be taken to the City hospital. Sobolski, who was riding in the wagon, was thrown from the seat into the body of the wagon, and was given a sensational ride.

The horse started to run just in front of the home of Charles H. Shue, the Chinese candidate for representative. Hundreds of people were on the streets and many teams were passing up and down.

WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Jefferson Art Collection Was Worth $50,000

BUZZARD'S BAY, Oct. 3.—The famous collection of the late Joseph Jefferson, containing paintings, valuable books and manuscripts, bronze tablets, rugs and various curios, the whole valued at more than $50,000, was lost in a fire, yesterday, which destroyed the stable at Crow's Nest, in which they have been stored since the actor's death in 1905.

In the collection were two marble busts of Jefferson, modeled by himself; more than 100 paintings of himself in various poses and characters, mementoes of great actors of the past century, and rare books which cannot be replaced. None of these were saved.

Crow's Nest, the Jefferson estate, is situated some distance from the first station. Thomas McQuinn, caretaker of the estate, which was leased this summer to L. R. Thomas of Boston, discovered the blaze and notified the fire department by telephone. The flames gained such rapid headway that McQuinn found it impossible to get inside the building, and when the firemen arrived the stable was a smoldering ruin.

The flames also ignited the dwelling but were extinguished with slight loss. The loss on the stable was $2000.

Fur Fabric Coat for Motor Wear Makes Very Attractive Garment

WRAP OF ASTRAKHAN WEAVE IN SOFT GRAY

There are many new coatings that imitate short pelled furs, and one of the most attractive of these fabrics, an astrakhan-like weave in a soft gray shade, has been made up into this motorine coat. The pointed collar may be opened to form a deep v-neck when desired, though the coat, as pictured here, is buttoned closely about the neck. Velvet collar and cuffs and velvet bound buttonholes are added to the gray wrap.

One of the New Fall Hats Tak- ing the Place of Velvet Creations

SMART MODEL IN BROWN VELOURS

Velours hats are very smart this season and for certain occasions are taking the place of the more dressy velvet creations. The illustration shows a delightful velours creation in a lovely shade of cinnamon brown trimmed with feathers of the same color. A brown ostrich feather boa is becoming worn with this very fetching hat. In fact, brown is among the most approved colors of the season, but it is a color that should be chosen with care, for when unbecoming it is intensely unbecoming. When worn by the women with brown hair and eyes it is an ideal combination.

SPOIL THE EXPRESSION

Facial Gymnastics Are Sometimes Harmful

This story is intended for the girl or woman who makes "fowl" grimaces. These contortions form lines that do not come with old age. They are simply the result of our daily tricks of expression, and if we wish to become older with pleasant faces it behooves us to be careful what we do with our features day by day.

"We all have ugly little tricks of expression," says an authority on physical culture. "We speak from one corner of our mouth and so drag it down there, and when we are so that line is irrevocably fixed, and we look disagreeable."

"Many people use their eyebrows in a most extraordinary manner. They lift one or the other or keep both raised so high that one looks to say, 'Do relax those and let them down.'"

"Of course frowning well, it's very hard not to get the frowning lines between the brows. It is the most natural thing in the world when one is intently thinking to knit them or when we try hard to see some distant object. Still, if one can remember to relax she may not have a frowny brow when she is in middle age. I know a girl who frowns when she scrubs herself in the tub. Actually, she has to laugh when it occurs to her that she is frowning at the soap and washcloth and is as desperately intent as she was setting state questions."

"Another of my friends, a jolly young girl, has the oddest way of wrinkling up her nose at the tip, just like a pink and white bunny. She may say something ever so tender or beautiful or soul inspiring, but that ridiculous little wrinkle of her nose tip spoils the whole thing."

"I met recently with a charming looking girl, who was blissfully ignorant of the fact that she gave every now and then a very naughty wink with her right eye. At first I naturally supposed it was to emphasize some remark, but several recurrences of the wink prompted me to wonder what would happen if some stuffy old gentleman or irreverent youth ever got one of these winks. Such a thing can be treated by an oculist and the habit broken."

"Holding the lips badly nears many a pretty face. In nice eyes out of the teeth are to blame. They protrude, do not fit together or do something of that sort. Now, always every one knows how necessary it is to attend to such matters as a child, and better looking mouths are the result."

"The 'primes and prisms' practices of our grandmothers were not so bad, after all. Almost anything is better than letting all the lines of the face sag and droop, and if some kind friend points out to us that we have some personal wrinkle in the way of facial gymnastics we had better try to eradicate it at once."

New English Raincoats

Among the useful and serviceable garments needed by the school girl is a raincoat. Some stunning English coats, intended to be worn when the chilly November rains come down, are in the shops for sale. These new coats are fashioned from soft toned cravenette or rubberized cloth, and a decidedly good feature of them is the ventilation piece across the back in addition to the ones under the arms.

Every girl who goes to college knows how convenient a coat of this kind is to run across the campus in or when going to the schoolhouse.

Dressed in one of these coats the young girl knows that she will be carefully protected from the wind and storm of the early winter weather, while at the same time realizing that she is correctly garbed for the elements.

It is a shame to get a nice topcoat wet every time a girl goes out in the rain, but with a good raincoat all this trouble is avoided and the topcoat can be kept for sunny days.

These English coats may be also used for traveling and for motoring and are just the thing to wear to church on a stormy morning.

But The Bump Came

Many a man is pretty sure that while coffee may hurt others it don't hurt him—till the bump comes.

The reason is plain when a change is made from coffee to

POSTUM

This pleasant table drink much resembles real Java coffee in flavour, but is free from "caffeine" (the drug in coffee) or any other harmful substance.

Postum, made from choice Northern wheat and the juice of Southern sugar cane, has put many former coffee drinkers on the Road to Wellville.

COMES A TIME When Coffee Shows What It Has Been Doing

"Of late years coffee has disordered with me," writes a friend from Rome, N. Y.

"The firstest punishment being to make me 'dope' and dizzy, and it seemed to thicken up my blood."

"The heaviest was when it upset my stomach completely, destroying my appetite and making me nervous and irritable, and sent me to my bed. After one of these attacks, in which I nearly lost my life, I concluded to quit the coffee and try Postum."

"It went right to the spot! I found it not only a most palatable and refreshing beverage, but a food as well."

"All my ailments, the 'dope' and dizziness, the unsatisfactory condition of my blood, my nervousness and irritability disappeared in short order and my sorely afflicted stomach began quickly to recover. I began to rebuild and have steadily continued until now. Have a good appetite and am rejoicing in sound health which I owe to the use of Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE $5000 BUCKEYE STAKE

Was Captured by Baden at the Grand Circuit Meet in Columbus Yesterday

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 2.—The Brown stallion Baden, which has won more money this season than any other trotter racing, captured himself yesterday at the Driving park from the disgraced at his defeat last week in the rich $5000 Buckeye stake by winning the $5000 Buckeye event for 2:12 trotters in the fastest race of any of the rich stakes this season.

Dave Hilde, his conqueror of last week, was not only beaten, but finished sixth, not being a contender at any time.

A new world's record was established for three-year-old pacing colts by the Nebraska youngster, Impetuous Palmer, which registered a mile against time in 2:00.

The speculation yesterday was very heavy, especially on the Buckeye stake, in which some record pools for the meeting were made.

That portion of the racegoers who speculate did not take the defeat of Baden last week seriously, fearing it a fluke, and the New Jersey stallion was installed the choice for the Buckeye at $200. Dave Hilde bringing $70, Dorsh Medium, $60, Oakdale and Fletcher W. $45 each, and the field, composed of Ruth McGregor, Peter Bay and The Wanderer, $30.

The first heat was a battle all the way between the favorite, Dave Hilde, and the challenger, Ruth McGregor, the latter leading the heat by a length in 2:07, a new record for the stallion and the fastest mile trotted this season by any of the stake horses.

There was considerable play on Oakdale for the second heat and he was an early contender, but failed in the eighth drive, leaving the field. Dorsh Medium up with a great push and landing second to the favorite in 2:05, Ruth McGregor, behind third and Dave Hilde fourth.

In the final heat Cox had the best, but erratic Esther W. trotting very fast and had them all beaten but Baden in the stretch. The pair came the last eighth very fast, Esther W. leading at the shoulder of the stallion when he flashed by the wire in 2:03.

Esther W. from the 2:03 stake, won the 2:11 trial in straight heats. There was a great battle between Baden, Ruth McGregor, and Esther W. for the second money, which went to the Cox stallion.

The sixth heat in the 2:11 trial, carried over from Tuesday, was won by Dr. Wilkes in a close finish, with the favorite Jean Arion.

Reggie Cox, the best pace horse, was first choice for the 2:15 pace but, as has usually been the case in her races, was beaten the first two heats, which went to the credit of the Ohio mare, Addie W. The favorite backed wheels with Dr. Wilkes in the second heat and was easily won without trouble. She then won the third heat.

Impetuous Palmer, the Nebraska colt which has been racing in the pacing families, was started to lead the world's three-year-old pacing colts, but held fourth by John Landon and Klatskanie in 2:05. He was driven by Charles Valentine and passed by a runner driven by Will Landon. The colt paced an evenly timed mile in 2:00, also capturing the $5000 Buckeye stake for any six-year-old, the $5000 stake.

Four Members of the Giants Who Will be Feared by the Red Sox in World's Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Everything is in readiness for the start of the world's series here Oct. 3. The New York and Boston teams are evenly matched, and both looked for struggles are expected. Local baseball experts figure the Giants have an advantage in the base running, the managerial line and that of having been through a world's series campaign. According to these critics, this should prove a boon in a battle among youngsters on both sides. One thing is certain—New York is not likely to lose its nerve in the coming series, and Boston may. The Giants proved their gameness against the Athletics last fall. The Red Sox have never been known to show the white feather and will not likely start at this late day. Altogether it looks like the best world's series of history from every angle. The Giants have a great collection of bag stealers in Doyle, Murray, Devore, Snodgrass, Merkle and Herzog. They are among the first ten sack pilferers in the National League. "Big Chief" Meyers, the Giants' backstop, is also much feared. The big India is the most dangerous batsman on the team and is expected to come in the championship games.

THE RED SOX GET PRACTICE

They Had a Fine Workout and Devoted Considerable Time to Batting

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The Boston Red Sox had a fine workout yesterday on the Athletics' grounds. Manager Stahl paid special attention to batting practice. The workout lasted a full hour, with Connie Mack and several of the Athletics enjoying the work from front seats in the grandstand. Steve Yerkes came up from his home in Millville, N. J., and returned to his home after the practice.

Fred McKeer arrived here from Washington yesterday morning, and will return with the team Saturday night. The members of the Boston team accepted an invitation to one of the theatres last evening.

Baseball seems dead in the Quaker City. The downfall of the White Elephant has spread deep gloom over the old home of Billy Penn. It was all "clipped" that Connie Mack would land a third pennant. No one dreamed that Boston had a look-in, and the Quakers are still trying to figure out how it all happened.

Many loyal Quaker fans are taking their medicine as they should, while others claim that Harry Davis' absence caused the trouble. The local people have blamed about every one connected with the Elephant, with the direct cause of the downfall, while the fact of the matter was that Boston had the best team in the league from the start.

Both local teams have been disappointed here this year and will play a consolation series starting next Monday. The fans are taking no interest in the meeting.

Nothing Doing, Said Bush

Pres. McKeer made no effort to secure a block of seats at the Polo grounds for the Boston Royal Rooters and their brass band, but Pres. John T. Bush would make no reservations. It will be a case of first come first served in New York, with no reservation of any kind of seats sold before the day of the game.

"Wild Bill" Donovan, the famous old Detroit pitcher, is spending a few days in this city and called on the Boston players yesterday. Donovan witnessed several games at the Polo grounds and had some interesting dope on the Giants.

Pres. McKeer saw two games in New York a short time ago. He witnessed the series last fall and has sized up the Giants. McKeer is a keen student of the game and players.

Most veteran critics figure that Mathewson will be the hardest man to beat, yet the Red Sox are an offhand lot of batsmen and have no choice when it comes to facing pitchers.

Red Sox Off in Batting

The Sox gave anything but a good exhibition of stick-work during the three games at Washington, even when against second-class pitchers. The seven regular men hit for .251, making 21 hits in three games, or seven to a game, and 21 hits in 27 innings is anything but championship form.

The stick-work of Larry Gardner was sadly mixed. Lewis made a great showing, while Wagner did effective batting in each game. Yerkes and Stahl hit in poor form, while Speaker seemed to want to hit the ball out of the lot each time and was completely off his strike.

All the players will more than likely get back to their natural gait during the games here. Several of the Red Sox and Athletics went out to the golf links yesterday, and Joe Wood and Neal Ball gave Tris Speaker and Jack Coombs a good beating. Wood's long drives were pronounced beauties by the party.

WON THE VANDERBILT RACE CORBETT HAS RALLIED

De Palma Averaged 69 Miles an Hour and Took First Place in the Big Event

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 2.—Ralph De Palma, driving a Mercedes car, yesterday won the eighth running of the classic Vanderbilt cup automobile race from a field of eight starters over the new Wauwatosa road course. His time was 41:20, 31.21, for a distance of 200 miles, 2741 feet. This was at a speed of 69 miles an hour, or five miles per hour slower than last year's Vanderbilt at Saccagaw.

De Palma won by 42.5 seconds from Hughes, driving a Mercer-Special, after "Toby" Tostall had led through the first half of the race and then had been forced to withdraw because of engine trouble. Spencer Wishart, with a Mercedes car, was third and Old Argemont, driving a Stutz, finished fourth. Only these four cars finished.

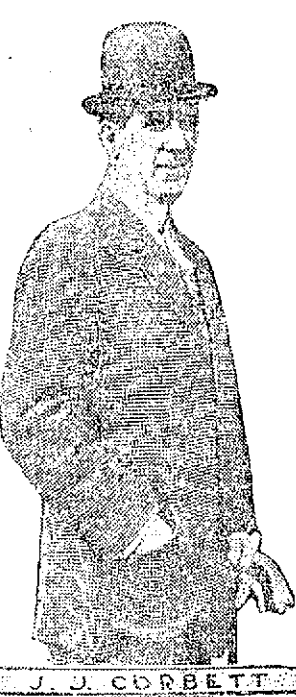

Ralph Mulford was eliminated early in the race by a minor accident. Tostall went out after he had acted as pace-maker for the first 100 miles, for a race reason and Old Argemont and Harry Nelson never had a chance.

Tostall furnished the feature of the race by averaging a speed of 5 miles per hour for repeated laps. He drove the fastest lap of the day, 40:10, for the 75.8-mile course.

As regards the equipment, it was the same story over again, for De Palma's car was equipped with Mercedes the same type of tires which were used on the winners of previous Vanderbilts and Grand Prize races last year.

How the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox Will Shape Up in the Struggle for the World's Championship Which Will Begin Next Week

ship is Joe Wood. There is no doubt that the fact that he is a champion pitcher. He has a fast ball that is a wonder of the American league, and his slow one is a marvel. His great change of pace is bound to wreck hands with any string of batters, provided he does not lose his head. Wood has been in many hard fights and ought to be fully able to take care of himself.

The Giants ought to win, some say, because John McGraw knows more baseball than Jake Stahl.

Individually the Giants are not stronger than the Red Sox, but when team work is to be considered the Giants have the best of it. The world's series surely will be diverted from individualism to a question of unification.

The Red Sox are at present slight favorites. Those who have made the Boston first choice are banking on the pitching staff to mow down the Giants.

To get down to facts, the Giants are heavier hitters than the Red Sox and have shown themselves better run-getters, as the records will show.

On the bases the Giants are far superior to any club in either league. In the last world's series the Giants, base their hitting ability, the Giants ought to get a great many more on the bags this time than they did against the Athletics.

The only department in which the Red Sox show superiority over the Giants, according to the official records, is in fielding.

While the Red Sox are often referred to as sluggers, it is very interesting to know by the records that the Giants are far ahead of them in long, cleanup drives.

According to the figures, the best base runner on the Red Sox team is Tris Speaker. He is third. No other Boston player is listed among the first ten. The Giants have a monopoly on the base stealing average in the National. In the first ten appear the names of Doyle, Snodgrass, Dwyer, Murray, Herzog and Becker.

According to these figures, the Giants have a shade the better of the Red Sox so it naturally comes down to a question of pitching. Could the Giants hit that hard against Joe Wood, Bedient and Buck O'Brien with his spitball? That's a question that no one could answer.

The Giants have so molded their points of strength into compact form

Now that the New York Giants have captured the National league pennant and Boston the American league flag, it might be interesting for the fans to know some facts about these two clubs before getting down their bets on the result.

The world's series of 1912 is possibly to be remembered as long as the game endures. Not only does it unite together in the respective major leagues champions an unusually well matched pair of contestants, but it also furnishes a stake of such gigantic proportions as to bring out the very last ounce of fight.

For every one at all concerned in the national pastime a better season attraction could not be arranged, as that between the Giants and Red Sox. In the matter of pure ability it is doubtful if two better matched rivals ever faced each other.

Furthermore, this is a year of years, for upon it develops the prestige of the rival major leagues. This is the "rubber" of world's championships. Each league has now four titles to its credit, and upon this fall's result hinges a great deal of civic pride among the fraternity.

On form Boston looks the better of the two teams. They have proved this much by going through the whole season without one serious slump. In a long race like a season's championship of 154 games the Giants would suffer greatly by comparison, but a world's championship series and a 154 game series are different propositions.

Finally, other things being equal, this short dash must be right up to the batteries. More than ever will battery strength figure in this fall's big series. Outside the points the teams shape up as of about equal strength. The Red Sox try it all over the Giants in the matter of outfield strength. Boston boasts the best center fielder in the game in Speaker. Hooper and Collins, but New York fully equalizes this in the infield. McHugh has an exceptionally classy inner defense. Boston's first line is not brilliant. Gardner at first is the best of the lot, and there are three or more third basemen in his own company that are ranked higher than the Boston man, but the infield fear of the speed boys cover a multitude of sins by heavy stick work. Every one of them is a slinger. Heinie Wagner is almost as much of a terror as his illustrious roommate of the Pirates, Stahl. Stahl is a fence buster in defensive speed and still New York undoubtedly outs it over Boston's infield. However, the Hub's superior hitting power and the outfield advantages make it just about a toss up.

It's pretty nearly a question of pitching then. Both teams have good pitchers. However, McGraw's "Curly" Indian backstop, has nothing on Casey and Cady except perhaps a shadow in hitting ability. It is his superior strength in the box that gives Stahl a shades advantage at the sport. He has five rattling good batters, any one of whom is likely to make McGraw's best step to the limit—Joe Wood, Bedient, Hall, O'Brien and Collins. Wood is one of the finest wonderment pitchers of the game. He is a speed marvel of the white stock in this league. He is a much faster ball pitcher, and a faster one. Hall is a good curve ball machine. "Smoky" O'Brien, who has just rounded this season's most for the first time this season is one of the greatest spittball throwers in the league. Ray Collins is a southpaw and a cracker-jack, too.

New York will have the time of its life beating any one of the two pitchers unless the Giant tossers fling shut-out ball. New York never has seen such speed as Wood can show. O'Brien is a better spittball thrower than Hendrix of the Pirates. Collins is the best left hander in the American league.

Against this brilliant array of box talent the Giants have had to stack Mathewson, Marquard and Tesreau. And of the three, Tesreau looks up as the great hope. Strangely enough the Red Sox fear this green, inexperienced pitcher more than they fear Matty or the "Hub." Tesreau is big enough to work every other day if necessary, and he has just the kind of a spittball that the Red Sox do not relish. In fact, Boston murders most anything but the spittball. The Hub team looks forward with pleasure to a meeting with Mathewson. In 1909 the speed boys half massacred "Big Six" when he was at the height of his glory. They now secure him an "old man" compared to these days. Of Marquard the Hub has no fear. The fallacy that the Boston Americans prove a pinch for left handers has been picked. The lineup embraces just two left handed swatters, and one of these, Tris Speaker, pounds fork hand slinging harder than the right winged king.

On this other hand, the question arises, can the Red Sox hit so hard against Mathewson, Marquard and Tesreau? Many of them have battled running ability did not cut much against Matty, and though they lost one, for the simple reason that they the opener to him they afterward gave did not get on the bases. Still, with him a tripping. They do not seem to fear him, but as Jimmy McAleer said the other day: "Any team that beats Mathewson has to get up and dance. He always pitches an intelligent game, no matter what is the condition of his arm. His experience is also of immense advantage to him."

The work of Marquard, Bedient, Tesreau and O'Brien in a world's series is hard to figure. Marquard has been against the fire and has more experience than the others, but he was not successful against the Athletics. O'Brien and Tesreau are both spittball pitchers, and they are bound to trouble Boston. Neither the Giants nor the Red Sox like to hit at spittball.

The man the Boston supporters are depending upon to win the champion-

DR. WILEY SCORES ROOSEVELT

Says That He Blocked Pure Food Work as President—He Also Criticises President Taft

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 2.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, formerly chief of the federal bureau of chemistry and government pure food expert, made his debut as a democratic campaign speaker here last night.

His speech was devoted largely to an attack upon President Roosevelt, who, he said, was falsely claiming credit for the passage of the Pure Food and Drug act.

Declaring that he had remained loyal to the republican party for many years, Dr. Wiley said: "I now believe that the republican party, as at present constituted, is an enemy of the people."

"In my own case the chief cause of breaking away from the republican party is the attitude of two republican administrations, viz. those of Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt, toward the food and drug laws."

"The president replied that it was of no little consequence that it wasn't worth mentioning."

Dr. Wiley spoke of difficulties he had encountered in enforcing the law, of the appointment of Associate Chemist Dunlap and the growth of Solicitor McCall's power. Finally, he said, to keep out of the courts, the opponents of the law appealed to President Roosevelt.

"Shortly thereafter," he continued, "I was asked by the secretary of agriculture to go with him to the president's office. Solicitor McCall and Associate Chemist Dunlap were also of the party. Then we met Mr. Taft at the White House. Mr. Taft, representing Mr. Wilson's brother-in-law, and James A. Sherman, at that time a member of the House of Representatives, appearing in the interest of certain brothers of Charles, N. Y."

"They had spent the previous evening with the president, showing him how Wiley was running a double game. This particular republican business consisted of putting a benzene of soda and arsenic into human food. The president stated the object of the meeting and summarized the conversation. These business men had held with him the night before."

"He then turned to the secretary of agriculture and said, 'Mr. Wiley, do you think the addition of benzene of soda to foods is injurious?' The secretary answered 'Yes.' Then turning to me, he said, 'Dr. Wiley, do you think the use of benzene of soda in foods is injurious?' I answered 'I do not think, I know. I have tried it on healthy young men and it made them ill.'"

"The same question was asked of Solicitor McCall and Associate Dunlap. They both answered in the affirmative."

"Then, turning to the republican representatives of business and sticking the table a ringing blow with his fist, the president said: 'Gentlemen, if this drug is injurious you shall not put it in food.'"

"Had matters stopped there there would have been no Rensselaer board, but at this juncture Mr. Sherman interposed: 'But, Mr. President, how about the saccharin?' My firm saved $4000 last year by using saccharin instead of sugar."

"Unfortunately 'batted in' at this juncture and said, 'Yes, Mr. President, and everyone who eats these products is deceived, believing he is eating sugar, and moreover the health is threatened by this drug.'"

"Turning upon me in sudden anger and fierce visage, the president said: 'Anybody who says saccharin is injurious is an idiot. Dr. Wiley gives it to me every day. Having thus had my mental classification officially defined, I withdrew.'"

"Two days thereafter the Rensselaer board was gazetted. It was received with a shout of acclamation from the throat of every adulterator and misbrander of foods in the land. Instead of having to go to the courts to defend their nefarious practices, they were now the wards of the Great Father of Washington, and from that time to this have continued their activities in poisoning and defrauding the people.

Charging that he had been directed by the secretary of agriculture to make no reference in his public addresses to the possible injurious effect of the drugs mentioned, and that upon the appointment of the Rensselaer board, he was directed to stop his experiments upon young men, Dr. Wiley declared:

"Who committed this unpardonable sin against the conscience and health of the people? The great tribune of the people, Theodore Roosevelt, and his cabinet officers. I am naturally not greatly enthused with the prospect of the continuation of this crime against humanity by the return of Theodore Roosevelt to supreme power."

"Roosevelt is just as apt to support the bad as the good. He is not guided by principle, but by impulse—and he is essentially dangerous to free institutions. He who disfranchises the men that Abraham Lincoln died to set free is an apostate from the party which honored him with the presidency."

Of the appointment of Associate Chemist Dunlap by Mr. Roosevelt, the speaker said: "In order to appoint this interloper to his high position, the president of the United States had suspended the civil service law."

"I was informed in writing that Dr. Dunlap was not my equal, but my superior, and I was directed to furnish him with everything he asked for, and that no letters or other business connected with the bureau of chemistry relating to food and drugs, could go without the initials of Dunlap and McCall."

"Thus, by acquaintance of the secretary of agriculture and by direction of the president of the United States, two great laws, each intended to protect the people, were set aside to place in supreme power two of the most malicious men that ever disgraced the public service."

"When the legislative committee of the American Medical association went to the White House to ask that this action be rescinded," Dr. Wiley declared, "President Roosevelt became violently angry and, livid with rage, said, 'You jacks keep your bridges on.'"

After telling the story of the "What Is Whisky?" investigation and prosecution which were pending when Mr. Roosevelt went out of office, Dr. Wiley said: "President Taft lost no time in utterly repudiating the only point on which Mr. Roosevelt had upheld the law. He directed Solicitor General Taft to hold a trial, summon and examine witnesses, etc."

"This led Justice Harlan, a few days after the completion of this unholy work, to say to me, 'What's this I hear; they have been holding court at the White House?' I replied, 'Mr. Justice, you know as much about this matter as I do—you have read the papers.' To which he responded, 'Well, well, it's about time this question was coming up to my court.'"

In most of the whisky cases, the speaker said, appeals were pending when President Taft was inaugurated. "President Taft," he added, "has prided himself on his confidence in and support of the judiciary. Yet, knowing these cases were pending, he stooped from his high office to do a favor to the worst lot of adulterers in Christendom and ordered the whole matter dropped from the dockets."

"It is impossible, therefore, that I should have confidence in the coming conduct of these two candidates, no matter how profusely they may promise to be good and work for the common welfare. By their fruits (not promises) shall ye know them. And these fruits have been scabby, worm-eaten and rotten at the core."

Money deposited in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank on or before October 5th draws interest from that date.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

When a present day opera or musical comedy has a run in New York or Chicago of twenty or thirty weeks, a great hubbub is made. Contrast this with the record of the Lowell opera "The Bohemian Girl" with its almost seventy years of continuous popularity in the United States and in various European countries. This most popular of all operas will be presented at the Opera House on Saturday, Oct. 5, matinee and night, by the Alcorn Opera company. The present version admits the introduction of a troupe of whirlwind acrobats, geese, horses, monkeys, chickens, etc., all of which are said to be employed with telling effect. A special orchestra is an important addition to this season's company.

CREATORS AND HIS BAND

Heads roll! Are you helping to boom the building fund benefit concert to be given by Creators and his band at the Opera House next Sunday afternoon and evening? That is the question frequently propounded by the members of Lowell lodge, No. 87, E. P. O. Pike this week, and the answer must always be in the affirmative. Judging from the fine advance sale that is now going on for this attraction. It goes without saying that those who have heard this organization in their most popular be on hand to welcome the noted conductor to this city. Tickets are on sale at the box office and also by members of the order of Pike.

"MUTT AND JEFF"

Get in line early Friday morning. Why? Don't you know? The seat sale of "Mutt and Jeff" opens at the box office of the Opera House at 9 o'clock. If you can't be there, get a "proxy" to hold your place. This is the usual course of procedure when Gus Hill's big musical comedy, fashioned after Bud Fisher's famous cartoons, comes to town.

Keith's Theatre

"In the Shadows," the waltz number given by Herb Webster, Jr., at the Keith theatre, this evening, is proving the song hit of "The Maid and the Prince," a side splitting musical comedy. Fifteen persons appear in the piece, the fun is wholesome and there is plenty of it. Robert Henry Hodge and Julia Nash purvey two delightful acts, which are repeated with clever characterization. The Reid Sisters are whirlwind dancers, who supply plenty of acrobatic features, and Peppino is a remarkable juggler. Others on the bill are Gertrude Everett and Commodore Tom. Good seats remain. Phone 28.

The Playhouse

A laugh for every minute of the play's progress is assured the patrons who attend next week's attraction at the Playhouse. The piece, Leo Dietrichstein's three-act comedy, "Before and After," is among the cleverest things written by this clever dramatist. The fact that this is the first comedy in which the Drama Players have appeared since their coming to Lowell should interest the many who are anxious to see how the members handle the more humorous situations of a light piece.

Merrimack Square Theatre

The bill at the Merrimack Square theatre this week has been arranged with a view of appealing as much as possible to the little folks. Marie Horton & Co. in an amusing comedy, "Barney Van Velder," the pajama girl, Chester Bonner with a huge cast of good songs, well sung. The Comrades De Lafayette in a musical offering are all good, but it is "The Hounding Three" which will be probably the best liked of

MISS JULIA NASH.
Appearing in "Her First Case" at Keith's Theatre This Week

all by the kiddies. Saturday matinee is going to be "Kiddie Day." Bring the children for a treat. Performances are continuous from 1 to 10.30. Phone 2053.

Academy of Music

Rhodes' Marionettes comprise a reproduction of a modern theatre in a most realistic manner. An ingenious and amusing novelty. Tiny figures are made to appear in the orchestra in the boxes, in the audience and on the stage of a miniature theatre and perform all manner of ludicrous antics. Acrobats, mimetists, dancers and skeletons gambol about to the music of the marionette orchestra. An act which has been elaborated until it now stands as one of the top notch acts in vaudeville. Weber & Frizer, two boys and a piano in a singing and talking novelty. Performances were changed today and are exceptionally good. Come early, as we start early.

Kasino Dance Hall

As it had some time ago been decided to run the Kasino dance hall all winter, the problem of heating came up and it seems that this has been most satisfactorily solved now. The owners are having installed in the structure what will be one of the largest boilers in this city, and a storm wall has been constructed about the place. The new boiler will operate 32 large radiators which will be arranged about the hall, and what is more this boiler has the same power and capacity as the one in the Hill-dreth building which operates 132 radiators.

THE MERRIMACK RIVER HEARING

The people of Lowell interested in making the Merrimack river navigable should attend the hearing upon this subject before a United States engineer in the city of Lawrence tomorrow forenoon. It is expected that a large number of representative citizens of Lowell will attend the hearing.

Business men should take sufficient interest to attend this hearing and express their views in regard to the matter.

It is well known that the mills and the railroads are opposed to this movement and while they refuse to give out any data as to their freight business or how much of it might be diverted to the navigable river route, it is difficult to find the necessary argument in favor of the project. The local mill companies are combined in the Locks and Canals company and there seems to be an impression that in order to make the river navigable it would be necessary to pull up bridges and even to interfere with the canal system, which is a valuable adjunct as a source of power to the mills. The city of Lawrence is handicapped by water power companies since as is Lowell, and doubtless there is equal opposition there. The case is different at Haverhill. Moreover, the manufacturing companies are more or less at the mercy of the railroads and for this reason, if for no other, they doubtless feel disinclined to enter an agitation to make the river navigable even though they felt that they would derive much benefit from the change.

AN EXPENSIVE RAILWAY STRIKE

The annual report of the Boston Elevated Railway shows that this year there was a deficit of $391,000 against a surplus last year of $153,400. The deficit this year is due to the extensive outlays and a suspension of business during the strike which lasted from June 7th until July 26th. As the report is for the fiscal year ending June 30th, only three weeks of the strike are included so that the expense of the other three will come in next year's report. It is clear, therefore, that the strike cost the company over a $1,000,000, the amount which General Baneroff promised to spend rather than recognize the railway men's union.

The strike was very expensive, not only to the company but also to the strikers, who had to spend seven weeks in idleness. The loss to the company and the men combined is trifling when compared to the loss and inconvenience suffered by the general public. The time has arrived when some law should be enacted to prevent strikes on public service corporations such as street railways. The men should be obliged to work until their demands be fully investigated and adjudicated by a competent board of arbitrators, and the finding should be compulsory on both sides. There is no other way by which such strikes can be prevented, and it is utterly wrong to leave the public exposed to the danger of strikes of this kind whenever any particular craft sees fit to quit work for some cause real or imaginary. The business of the whole city may be partially paralyzed under present conditions and yet there is no remedy, no redress.

I. W. W. INTIMIDATING THE COURTS

It appears that members of the I. W. W. have sent threats to District Attorney Atwell promising to do various terrible things in case Etter and Giovannitti should be convicted.

These people should understand, or should be made to understand, that they are engaged in dangerous business when they undertake to do anything of this kind. Already the result of their agitation is seen in the difficulty to secure a jury to try these two men. The I. W. W., or at least a portion of the members are regarded as dangerous characters, and it is only natural that the takersmen should be apprehensive of the result in case they should be drawn to act on the jury.

The courts of this state must be protected against intimidation and coercion. It is useless to try cases unless the judge and jury be free to administer the law justly in all cases.

The talk about a demonstration in front of the court house is something new in the state of Massachusetts. We surmise that if it be tried a few times, it will never be attempted again. We are not living south of the Mason and Dixon line, and we are not subject to mob rule, nor do we expect to be for some time. If the mob undertakes to usurp the power of the courts, we imagine that the military companies will be very active, at least for a few days, in damping out the movement.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

The doctors at the International Congress of Hygiene in Washington brought out many important points bearing upon infectious and other diseases. The subject of infantile paralysis, one of the most deadly diseases, was discussed and while no specific is yet found for the disease, Dr. Rosenham has discovered that it is transmitted from the stable fly. Of this discovery Dr. Briggs, who presided, said:

Prevalent in the announcements made in St. Louis for the betterment of mankind is concerned in the discovery of the transmitting agency of the parasite of infantile paralysis. Dr. Rosenham's conquest cannot be too highly estimated. His proof that the parasite is transmitted through the medium of the stable fly opens the door to the eventual conquering of the most dreadful scourge of childhood.

This will be glad news to people where the disease has been prevalent as it will lead to preventive measures that may prove effective.

THE PARTY BOLLERS

The democrats of this state had several hot contests in the primaries, but after the people decided, the defeated candidates should come out and support the winners. District Attorney Pelletier is prepared to do this, although he feels hard for the condemnation for Governor. Mr. Pelletier understands, is supporting the ticket and will support Governor Foss. Here in our own city we had several contests and in each and every one the defeated candidates should not sulk in the rear. They should come out in the open and let the party see that they are not bollers. There were several candidates seeking the nomination for senator but only one could win in each particular case. The others were defeated; but that does not justify their opposition to the man who wins. Party treachery of this kind, whether it be in a representative, senatorial, or congressional contest, means political suicide to the men who are guilty of it.

NOMINATION OF SALZER

In nominating Governor Salzer for governor the democrats of New York have named a young man, an able debater, and one who will make a vigorous fight for liberty and integrity. He is a man who has maintained a fairly good reputation for honesty and integrity and we do not believe we can be deceived of being associated with Tammany or the one hand or with the interests of the other. Salzer will be elected unless through treachery one of the best opportunities of a generation be wantonly destroyed.

The Vermont legislature in electing Allen M. Fletcher governor exercised its constitutional prerogative in accordance with the expressed will of the people as indicated by a plurality, not a majority, which alone can elect in Vermont. Fletcher had 6,900 more votes than the democratic candidate and 11,999 more than the Bull Moose candidate, so that there can be no objection to his election.

Hon. Charles S. Hanna is to be chairman of the committee on resolutions at the democratic convention. That means that the resolutions will be sane and sensible, neither socialistic nor reactionary.

Seen and Heard

"If anybody were to ask me," remarked a suffragette acquaintance of mine the other day, "what bird most closely resembled a man, I would unhesitatingly reply 'the rooster'." This pronounced relationship continued the apostle of sex equality, "must be clearly evident to even the most slipshod, careless observer. In his treatment of his feminine companions, the rooster is always dominating, always selfish, always vain, just like his human brother. The rooster boasts he treats in a most capricious manner, now devoting his exclusive attentions to blonde Leghorns and again centering his affections on brunettes Minorcas, while he utterly ignores both blondes and brunettes who have crossed the mystic line which places them in the proscribed class among the old hens. In this respect, therefore, he resembles his brother man. Mr. Rooster, too, is inclined to be lazy, and like all lazy folks, is liable to stray into the field of deception, if not that of lying. As an illustration notice the clamor he raises when any of his numerous hard-working, conscientious helpmates enters the world with an egg, and mark his brazen effrontery in seeking to take upon himself the credit for that worthy act. How like a man! An uncomprehensible temper and the most virulent jealousy also distinguishes the disposition of every rooster, just as it does that of every man. The moment that another of his scraggly hen flies into a rage, rattles his collar and assumes an air of bravado that is most worthy to behold. Should the interloper, though, remain undisturbed by these bellicose actions he strides about with an air of solemn dignity until he is forced to make a stand against the oncoming rival. Turning his head he notes that his feathered ally is looking on, so, as it is a case of either fight or suffer their withering contempt, he is forced to choose the lesser evil, consequently he advances to the combat. In this encounter he would be badly worsted but for the intervention of his clucking mates, who, by their shrill outcries, attract the attention of a farmer and this saves the honor of their lord and master. So, too, is the good name of many a man kept untarnished by the timely intervention of his sisters. Again, the rooster has a predilection toward keeping unseemly hours, for he has often been known to disturb the rest of many an insomniac by a bacchanal outburst at two in the morning. What deity he is up to at this unseemly hour it would be difficult to explain but possibly, like his brother with a tongue, he is at that time careening homeward after sitting up with some sick friend-rooster. His demeanor, also, toward his fair companions is noteworthy, or more truthfully, exasperating. These hens suffering victims of rooster-mane customs, if not laws, he looks upon as creatures placed about him simply to minister to his comfort or to afford him the satisfaction of realizing that in his little realm he is lord of all he surveys. But what supreme foolishness he shows! As he struts about among his followers how little does he realize that it is not through superior qualities that he retains an ascendancy over his feminine companions, but through the fact that the inevitable law of nature causes hens to be plentiful and roosters to be scarce. In other words, he occupies his dominant position simply through the workings of the law of supply and demand."

At a term of the circuit court in Lowell not long ago a "horse case" was on trial, and a well known horseman was called as a witness.

"You saw this horse?" asked counsel for the defendant.

"Yes, sir."

"What did you do?"

"I opened his mouth to ascertain his age, and I said to him, 'old Sport, there's a lot of life in you yet.'"

Whereupon counsel for the other side entered a vigorous protest. "Stop!" he cried. "Your honor, I object to any conversation carried on between the witness and the horse when the plaintiff was not present."

Fred Vandegrift boarded a train not long ago and seated himself. Presently a couple of musicians with a banjo and guitar began a slow melody and proceeded to take up a collection among the passengers. The music was rather slow. One of the musicians soon struck Van for a donation.

"I'll make a bargain with you," said Van. "I'll announce to the passengers that you are taking up a collection for the concert and that I am taking up a collection to get you to stop the music. If you get more than I do, you can continue the concert; if I get more than you do, you must stop playing."

MONEY SAVING HINTS

For Keeping Furniture Spic and Span

These are the days when the economical housewife begins to look over the furniture around the house to find out just what pieces need repairing and which ones are in good enough condition to last another winter.

It is always a wise plan to touch up furniture, either in the way of oiling or varnishing, just as soon as it begins to look the least bit shabby. In this way everything around a house may be kept in perfect condition and much money saved, for to let every piece of furniture run down until it looks about to fall to pieces is no real economy and show a decidedly careless housekeeper.

It often takes three times as much money to fix over furniture which has been allowed to get into this state of disrepair as it does to have each piece repaired as it begins to show the wear of years.

Often, too, with a few cents' worth of kerosene or oil the housekeeper can do all the touching up that is required. The real wood of the various furniture sets around the house should never be varnished with anything which will destroy the grain of the wood from sight. Walnut furniture, for instance, should be oiled, as the beauty of this wood lies in its smooth, waxy appearance.

A certain kind of wax may be used also for polishing walnut or mahogany tables. Mahogany furniture, however, looks best when polished with one of the various furniture polishes which are prepared for this beautiful wood. Cheap furniture can be restored to very good condition by a reliable varnish, and often these pieces can be painted over with splendid results.

Buttermilk Cottage Cheese

Very few housewives know that delicious cottage cheese can be made from buttermilk as well as from plain sour milk. Many farm households have long denied the cheese because they use cream separators and accumulate the buttermilk in a jar on the back part of the stove, where it will keep slowly. It requires a little more heating to curd than does the other milk. When it has entirely separated pour off the whey and turn the curd into a strainer over a bowl or pan, letting it stand from eight to ten hours. When it is dry stir a small amount of salt into the curd, mix with sweet cream or rich milk.

TURNIPS IN ALL STYLES

Some Recipes for Cooking the Vegetable

Turnip puree is a cream—Peel, slice and mince a dozen small turnips, blanch and drain them. Place in a saucepan with about two ounces of butter, fry for a few minutes without coloring, then add enough white stock to cover and a few stalks of parsley. Cook until quite tender, then drain and take out the parsley. Pass it all through a sieve, reheat the puree in the saucepan with a piece of butter and a pinch of sugar. Season with salt, pepper and grated nutmeg. If the puree is too thick reduce it. Finally add two or three tablespoons of cream.

Turnip Soup—Cook the turnips as stated in the above recipe, but add rather more stock to the puree to give it the consistency of soup. Pass it all through a sieve and reheat the soup. Let it simmer slowly for about half an hour. Skim and add one-half pint of milk of cream and a piece of fresh butter. Serve the soup with croutons of fried bread.

Glazed Turnips—Wash and peel a bunch of young turnips and cut them by means of a large vegetable spoon in the shape of ovals or large loaves. Put them in a pan with one ounce of butter, season with salt, pepper and a little stock. Bring to the boil and simmer gently until cooked. They must have absorbed all their stock and be slightly colored. Turnips prepared in this way are served as a vegetable or a garnish for entrees.

Turnips a la Hollandaise—Wash a bunch of young turnips and peel them. If large, cut them in half, cook them for 20 minutes in salted water. Strain off the water and drain the turnips. Melt one ounce of butter in an earthenware casserole, or, failing this, use a frying pan. Put in the turnips, adding a little stock. Turn them over each layer. Season with a little salt and pepper. Sprinkle a small handful of breadcrumbs over the top, also some grated cheese and a little melted butter. Bake in an oven for about 30 minutes and send to table in the same dish.

Turnips au Gratin—Peel lightly eight or nine medium-sized young turnips, cut them into slices and wash and drain them thoroughly. Melt two ounces of butter in a stewpan. When hot put in the turnips and stir over a brisk fire, season with pepper and salt, moisten with a little stock and cook until tender. Rub through a sieve or drain them. Arrange the slices on the puree in a well buttered pie dish and pour over them a bechamel sauce. Sprinkle the surface with fine breadcrumbs and add a few tiny bits of butter here and there. Bake in a quick oven for about 10 minutes, long enough to brown the top nicely.

Bechamel Sauce—Make a white sauce using equal quantities of chicken stock and cream as the liquid. If the chicken stock has not been flavored with vegetables, etc., fry a generous tablespoonful of vegetable: carrot, onion, parsley, etc., in the butter before adding the flour. Do not, however, allow them to color. Strain before serving.

Gift For the Baby

A very acceptable little gift, for a baby and one which is easily made, is a set of baby clothes. These can be made separately and can either be sewed on the cap or pinned with tiny gold pins. These little gifts should accompany the cap strings.

A very fine baby or sheer lawn should be used, cut into three and one-half inch strips. Fifteen inches long, which are then beamed by hand. The ends may be made as elaborate as desired. Dainty, beaming with an charming finish. A tiny suit with a beaming insertion of real lace is also lovely, or embroidered ends with tiny wreaths of forget-me-nots and eyelet dots may be used.

Mr. George C. Goussier, who conducts a steamship agency in Market street, received a telegram yesterday from the officials of the ship "Macedonia," instructing him not to sell any tickets for the trip which was to be made abroad by this ship, which was scheduled to leave New York yesterday, as orders were received from Greece for the ship to proceed to Philadelphia and there to receive arms and ammunition for the Balkan trouble.

The local Greeks are expecting orders from their country to return to Greece and take part in the present conflict with Turkey, and it is said that if such orders are received a large number of Greeks will leave Lowell and other parts of New England for their mother land. As soon as more is learned about the trouble, it is probable a general meeting will be held in this city and the situation discussed, the result of which it is presumed will be the departure of several hundred Greeks for Europe.

THE LAWRENCE STRIKERS THE BALKAN SITUATION

Scored, by Judge Mahoney of Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Oct. 2.—In passing sentence upon a woman for assaulting two girls employed in the Washburn mills last Thursday, Judge Mahoney in the municipal court announced that in the future he would be more drastic in dealing with assault cases. The woman was sentenced to serve 30 days in the house of correction and appealed.

In imposing sentence Judge Mahoney said: "Last January a new plan was inaugurated to start 500 lawless men and women to drive people out of the mills and when they got them out, to keep them out."

"This is the situation—1000 drive out 500 and then the press of the country state that 10,000 are out on a strike. It is about time that the authorities should take charge and see if they can't do the people who began this trouble."

MAN CONFESSES TO MURDERS

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—If the story which George Brown Spengler told last night proves to be true, the mystery of a crime which has puzzled Detroit police and detectives for nearly three years has been cleared up.

Spengler, a laborer, 30 years old, and described as a moral pervert, was arrested in connection with the murder of 12-year-old Matilda Reisv, whose mutilated body was found in an alley near her home last Tuesday night. He confessed not only to having killed and mistreated this child but told the police he also mistreated and murdered Helen Brown, 11 years old, whose body was found in a coal yard on Dec. 12, 1909.

Four other girls have been attacked in Detroit in the last 13 months; one of them was permanently injured and others less seriously hurt. Spengler admits responsibility for two of these offenses. In each case the child was attacked as she lay asleep in her parents' home.

by Taking Gas

Miss Mabel A. Fogg, divorced wife of Professor Michael Iatros, committed suicide last night at the office of this Allen, 225 Merrimack street, where she had been employed for some time as assistant to the dentist, by inhaling illuminating gas.

Despondency, it is believed, led the young woman to end her life, for it is claimed that a short time ago, she consulted a specialist in Boston and the latter told her she was suffering from an incurable disease and that her days were numbered.

Her body was found in the office shortly before 12 o'clock last night and the gas jet was wide open. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker C. M. Young.

Deceased, whose age was 39 years, 4 months and 25 days, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Fogg of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Warren of Conway, N. H., and Mrs. Adella Perkins of Lynn, as well as a brother, Charles C. Fogg of this city.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN A WITNESS

Called Before the Senate Committee to Tell About the Campaign Funds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—J. P. Morgan was the first important witness to testify today before the Senate committee investigating campaign funds. His appearance, close upon George R. Sheldon's sensational testimony of yesterday when the treasurer of the republican committee for the present campaign and the last swore that the late Cornelius N. Bliss had shown him records which bore evidence that Mr. Morgan's firm was one of four which had contributed $100,000 each to the republican war chest of 1904, was expected to develop more testimony along that line.

Mr. Morgan arrived last night, took apartments at a downtown hotel, spent the evening quietly and early today was ready to go to Capitol hill to testify before the committee.

One other witness was on the list for today. He is Judge Charles D. Duell, assistant treasurer of the republican campaign fund in 1904. The committee wanted to ask Judge Duell if he had seen any records showing the names of any large contributors to the republican fund in that year. Mr. Morgan reached the committee room accompanied by his son-in-law, Herbert L. Satterlee. The financier tucked at his moustache as he took his seat and watched the members of the committee closely. "Give the stenographer your name, please," said Chairman Clapp. "John Pierpont Morgan." "Your address?" "219 Madison avenue, New York." "Your business?" "Banker." Chairman Clapp called Morgan's attention to a published article by Charles Edward Russell charging that President Roosevelt had demanded that Mr. Morgan raise $100,000 for his campaign and that Wayne MacVough had been present when Mr. Morgan talked with the White House over the telephone. "Do you remember any such incident?" asked Senator Clapp. "Nothing whatever," replied Mr. Morgan emphatically. "I never corresponded over the telephone, telegraph or by mail with President Roosevelt," said Mr. Morgan. "I know my firm made no contribution to the republican national campaign of 1904." Mr. Morgan adjusted his glasses and looked at a paper. "In October, 1904, I gave $100,000; on Nov. 1, I gave another $50,000." "Any more?" "No, that is all I know of." He said he supposed the contribution was paid to Cornelius N. Bliss, his treasurer of the republican committee. "When was the second contribution made?" "I don't remember. It was paid in cash in money." Mr. Morgan said he did not know who solicited the first or second contributions, but he believed Mr. Bliss and Mr. Odell got the money. He believed that the bulk of the second contribution went through the national committee but was paid over to the New York state committee. Mr. Morgan could not recall contributions in 1904 by his associates. "Did you contribute in 1901 to the congressional campaign?" asked Senator Clapp. "I recall no other contribution that year." "What contributions did you make in 1908?" "The only contribution I made in 1908 was $10,000 to Mr. Sheldon." He said he made no contributions to the congressional fund that year. "I remember Mr. Sherman called on me once," he said, "but I can find no record of any contribution. If there was one made it was insignificant." "Did you make any contribution to the pre-convention campaign of any candidate for president this year?" "No, I was not even in the country. I know my firm made no contribution." As Senator Clapp closed his examination Mr. Morgan said emphatically that he was "sure there is no truth in the story of a telephone request for funds from President Roosevelt." Senator Paynter asked Mr. Morgan if the $50,000 was part of the so-called Harriman fund raised for the New York state committee. "I have no records," said Mr. Morgan, "but I have no doubt in my own mind that it was part of that state fund." "Your understanding was that the $50,000 went to the national committee but that it was really paid over to the state committee?" suggested Senator Paynter. "Yes, I refused to have anything to do with it unless the money was paid to the national committee," said Mr. Morgan. "I was my understanding that the national committee did not need funds but that the state committee was badly in need of money. I had a great deal to do with Mr. Cortelyou during the campaign but I do not know whether he was present at the meeting when the $50,000 contribution was discussed." Mr. Morgan said his relations with the late Cornelius N. Bliss had been very intimate; that Mr. Bliss and his father had been associates, he said, and "whenever they wanted anything they sent Mr. Bliss to me." "Had you supposed that Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou kept from President Roosevelt the fact that you contributed to the campaign fund?" "I knew nothing about that," said Mr. Morgan. He had not discussed campaign contributions with Mr. Cortelyou in 1904. When Senator Pomeroy took up the examination Mr. Morgan leaned forward in the witness chair with one hand cupped over his ear. But he failed to hear and finally he got down from the witness chair, saying: "Can't I sit down here near you; I can't hear very well." He took a chair from one of the official stenographers and moved it to within a few feet of Senator Pomeroy. "Were you especially interested in the campaign of 1904?" "Yes, we were." "Was Mr. Harriman especially interested in that campaign?" "I really don't know." "Were the insurance companies especially interested in this campaign?" "I don't know. There was never any concerted action by me with any of the insurance companies in that matter at that time," said Mr. Morgan emphatically. "Of course Mr. Perkins was a director of the New York Life insurance Co. and he probably talked with me about their interests but I can't remember any specific conversation." "Did Mr. Harriman ever tell you he had a talk with Mr. Roosevelt about railroad interests?" asked Senator Pomeroy. "I remember no such conversation," the financier said. "Mr. Chairman," said Mr. Morgan, "I want to make a statement, right here." "Proceed," said Senator Clapp. "I want it distinctly understood," said Mr. Morgan emphatically, "that J. P. Morgan & Co. never made a single contribution to a campaign with the promise or expectation of any return in any shape or manner and we never made a subscription unless we thought it for the best interests of the

"During this campaign was there any intention on your part to support the democratic candidate?" asked Senator Pomeroy.

"I never heard of it if there was," responded Mr. Morgan smiling. "If we had thought that the election of a democrat was for the best interests of the country we would have contributed to his campaign."

Mr. Morgan, responding to another question about a conference, said he thought he would have been apt to know if there had been a "small conference of large financiers" to discuss means to aid Mr. Roosevelt but he had no knowledge of such.

"Did you or Mr. Sheldon or Mr. Harriman call on any of the financial men of New York in the interest of the republicans that year?"

GLIDDEN AUTO TOUR

Has Been Abandoned

for This Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—There will be no Glidden automobile tour this year. This was announced yesterday by the National tour committee of the American Automobile association, which decided to postpone the contest until some time next year.

The principal reason was that many automobilists who wanted to enter the contest did not care to be away from their homes for three weeks just before election. It was also stated that objections had been made to many sections of the proposed route from Detroit to New Orleans. Next year an earlier date will be chosen, and in the meantime changes will be made in the route.

CHELSEA MAN KILLED

Thrown From Wagon

in Runaway

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—H. Berkowitz, a dealer in woolen and cotton supplies, living at 182 Second street, Chelsea, was killed, Harry Sobolefski, also of Chelsea, suffered a severe nervous shock and minor injuries, and many pedestrians had narrow escapes from injury when a horse driven by Berkowitz became frightened yesterday on Harrison avenue in the heart of Chinatown and dashed up the avenue as far as Nassau street.

Berkowitz was thrown to the pavement, landing on his head. He was dead before he could be taken to the City hospital. Sobolefski, who was riding in the wagon, was thrown from the seat into the body of the wagon, and was given a sensational ride.

The horse started to run just in front of the home of Charles H. Shaw, the Chinese candidate for representative. Hundreds of people were on the streets and many teams were passing up and down.

WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Jefferson Art Collection

Was Worth $50,000

BUZZARD'S BAY, Oct. 2.—The famous collection of the late Joseph Jefferson, containing paintings, bronzes, tablets, books and manuscripts, valuable rugs and various curios, the whole valued at more than $50,000, was lost in a fire, yesterday, which destroyed the stable at Crow's Nest, in which they have been stored since the actor's death in 1905.

In the collection were two marble busts of Jefferson, modeled by himself; more than 100 paintings of himself in various poses and characters, mementoes of great actors of the past century, and rare books which cannot be replaced. None of these were saved.

Crow's Nest, the Jefferson estate, is situated some distance from the fire station. Thomas McQuinn, caretaker of the estate, which was leased this summer to J. R. Thomas of Boston, discovered the blaze and notified the fire department by telephone. The flames gained such rapid headway that McQuinn found it impossible to get inside the building and when the flames arrived the stable was a smoldering ruin.

The flames also ignited the dwelling but were extinguished with slight loss. The loss on the stable was $5000.

One of the New Fall Hats Taking the Place of Velvet Creations

SMART MODEL IN BROWN VELOURS

Velours hats are very smart this season and for certain occasions are taking the place of the more dressy velvet creations. The illustration shows a delightful velours creation in a lovely shade of cinnamon brown trimmed with feathers of the same color. A brown ostrich feather boa is becomingly worn with this very fetching hat. In fact, brown is among the most approved colors of the season, but it is a color that should be chosen with care, for when unbecoming it is intensely unbecoming. When worn by the women with brown hair an dyes it is an ideal combination.

SPOIL THE EXPRESSION

Facial Gymnastics Are Sometimes Harmful

This story is intended for the girl or woman who makes facial grimaces. These contortions form lines that do not come with old age. They are simply the result of our daily tricks of expression, and if we wish to become older with pleasant faces it behooves us to be careful what we do with our features day by day.

"We all have ugly little tricks of expression," says an authority on physical culture. "We speak from one corner of our mouth and so drag it down there, and when we are so thin line is permanently fixed, and we look disagreeable."

"Many people use their eyebrows in a most extraordinary manner. They lift one or the other or keep both raised so high that one looks to say, 'Do relax these and let them down.'"

"Of course frowning—well, it's very hard not to get the frowning lines between the brows. It is the most natural thing in the world when one is intently thinking to knit them or when we try hard to see some distant object. Still, if one can remember to relax who may not have a furrowed brow when she is in middle age. I know a girl who frowns when she scrubs herself in the tub. Actually, she has to laugh when it occurs to her that she is frowning at the soap and washcloth and is as desperately intent as if she were getting state guest."

"Another of my friends, a jolly young girl, has the oddest way of wrinkling up her nose at the tip, just like a pink and white bunny. She may say something even so tender or beautiful or soul inspiring, but that ridiculous little wrinkle of her nose tip spoils the whole thing."

"I sat recently with a charming-looking girl, who was blissfully ignorant of the fact that she gave every now and then a very naughty wink with her right eye. At first I naturally supposed it was to emphasize some remark, but several occurrences of the wink prompted me to wonder what would happen if some pretty old gentleman or irreverent youth ever got one of these winks. Such a thing can be treated by an oculist and the habit broken."

"Holding the lips badly makes many a pretty face. In some cases out of ten the teeth are to blame. They protrude, do not fit together or do something of that sort. Nowadays every one knows how necessary it is to attend to such matters as a child, and better looking mouths are the result."

"The prunes and prisms' practices of our grandmothers were not so bad, after all. Almost anything is better than letting all the lines of the face sag and droop, and if some kind friend points out to us that we have some personal wrinkle in the way of facial gymnastics we had better try to eradicate it at once."

New English Raincoats

Among the useful and serviceable garments needed by the school girl is a raincoat. Some stunning English coats, intended to be worn when the chilly November rains come down, are in the shops for sale. These new coats are fashioned from soft toned cravenette or rubberized cloth, and a decidedly good feature of them is the ventilation piece across the back in addition to the ones under the arms.

Every girl who goes to college knows how convenient a coat of this kind is to run across the campus in or when going to the schoolhouse.

Dressed in one of these coats the young girl knows that she will be carefully protected from the wind and storm of the early winter weather, while at the same time realizing that she is correctly garbed for the elements.

It is a shame to get a nice topcoat wet every time a girl goes out in the rain, but with a good raincoat all this trouble is avoided and the topcoat can be kept for sunshiny days.

These English coats may be also used for traveling and for motoring, and are just the thing to wear to church on a stormy morning.

There Was a Man In Our Town

and he was Wondrous Wise—

You couldn't fool Him, Oh No!

He had drunk coffee for years. Coffee didn't hurt him.

But The Bump Came

Many a man is pretty sure that while coffee may hurt others it don't hurt him—till the bump comes.

But when headache, trampled nerves, an irritable heart, indigestion and sleeplessness begin to "get him," he's apt to look around for a reason.

The reason is plain when a change is made from coffee to

POSTUM

This pleasant table drink much resembles real Java coffee in flavour, but is free from "caffeine" (the drug in coffee) or any other harmful substance.

Postum, made from choice Northern wheat and the juice of Southern sugar cane, has put many former coffee drinkers on the Road to Wellville.

COMES A TIME When Coffee Shows What It Has Been Doing

"Of late years coffee has disagreed with me," writes a friend from Rome, N. Y.

"His highest pointment being to make me 'crazy' and dizzy, and it seemed to threaten my blood."

"The heaviest when I used my stomach completely, destroying my appetite and making me nervous and irritable, and sent me to my bed. After one of these attacks in which I nearly lost my life, I concluded to quit the coffee and try Postum."

"It went right to the spot! I found it not only a most palatable and refreshing beverage, but a food as well."

"All my ailments, the 'dizziness' and dizziness, the unsatisfactory condition of my blood, my nervousness and irritability disappeared in short order and my sorely afflicted stomach began quickly to recover. I began to rebuild and have steadily continued until now. Have a good appetite and am enjoying in sound health which I owe to the use of Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

MISS MAHEL HILL

Is To Become Dean of The Mitchell Military Boys' School in December

The friends of Miss Mahel Hill of the Lowell state normal school will be interested in learning that after December first she will be no longer connected with the department of history and government in that institution. Miss Hill has been appointed dean of the Mitchell Military Boys' school, Haverhill, where she will take to an already finely established and well known school, her large educational and sociological experience. With the acceptance of such an important position she will without doubt develop new activities in the school and further the interests of the home life of the boys. Her special investigation during the past six years along the line of better citizenship should have particularly valuable results in a school for boys.

PERSISTENT SELLING

OF CANADIAN PACIFIC INVITED SELLING OF GENERAL LIST

Recessions Did Not Carry Far—Some of the Specialties Were at Their Best in the Final Dealings

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Substantial advances were made by leading stocks at the opening of today's market. Union Pacific, St. Paul, Steel, Amalgamated, Anaconda and Bethlehem Steel rose a point or more. Other gains were less extensive. The tone was active and the demand was unusually broad.

Large amounts of stock were absorbed at steadily rising prices. Reading and U. P. made the best showing of the Standard list. Many specialties improved materially, particularly Colorado Fuel.

The decided improvement in the European situation and shading of time and call money rates called a vigorous rebound in prices today. London turned buyer of our stocks at home and later here. Trading in the first hour exceeded anything in volume since the inception of the rise some weeks ago.

Activity abated at midday, and prices sagged slowly, some of the leaders losing half a point or more. Canadian Pacific fell two points.

After realizing sales pressing on the market had been observed bull operators and up selected stocks and the whole list became active and strong again. Atchafalaya was in considerable demand.

The market closed strong. Persistent selling of Canadian Pacific, which fell two points under yesterday's close, invited some selling of the general list, but recessions did not carry far. A few of the manipulated specialties were at their best in the final dealings.

GOV. MARSHALL

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—On the final day of his visit to New England, Governor Marshall of Indiana, democratic candidate for vice president, faced one of the busiest schedules that has confronted him since he has been in the east. The governor left Boston during the forenoon for Worcester, where he was to be the principal speaker at a noon rally. Later the candidate was down for his second speech of the day at the Worcester Convention. After the Norwich meeting he will be taken to New London, where the final address of his New England tour will be delivered. Tomorrow Governor Marshall expects to attend a democratic conference in New York city. He was accompanied today by Mrs. Marshall.

PAST FIFTY? YOU NEED 'CASCARETS'

What glasses are to weak eyes—Cascarets are to weak bowels

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty. Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

MISS HARRIET BOUTELLE

Sec'y of Y. W. C. A. to be Tendered Reception

Miss Harriet Boutelle, the new general secretary for the Young Women's Christian Association, will be tendered a reception this evening. The affair to be held in Kitson hall from 7.30 to 9.30. The reception will be of the informal kind, it being given to personally acquainted members and non-members with Miss Boutelle.

The members of the educational and gymnasium committee will be in attendance during the reception to explain the class schedules and give information concerning courses to all who may be interested.

The speaker of the evening will be William L. Brink of Boston, who for several years was a director of the Y. M. C. A. in Davenport, Iowa, and at present chairman of the shop committee of the Boston association.

The decorations, music and ushering for this reception are in the charge of Mrs. G. D. Farley and the social committee. The gymnasium committee, with Mrs. Clarence H. Nelson as chairman, will serve refreshments. The arrangements for the classes and teachers will be discussed by the educational committee, of which Mrs. Alva Sturges is chairman.

A cordial invitation to attend this reception is extended to all those who are not members of the association, as well as to those who are.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

All stomach distress quickly ended with "Pape's Diapepsin"

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distresses vanish. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

GOVERNOR MARSHALL

Addressed Big Rally in Worcester Today

WORCESTER, Oct. 3.—"I read in the morning papers that Morgan gave $100,000 to the republican campaign fund," said Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, democratic vice presidential candidate, at a noon rally here today. "If that is all he gave he is a lightweight. He did not give half enough. President Roosevelt gave him the right in violation of the law to amalgamate the Tennessee Coal &amp; Iron company with the steel trust. That deal netted Morgan $50,000,000. Repeat that if he only gave back $100,000 of it he is a lightweight."

Gov. Marshall devoted a large part of his speech to a criticism of the progressive candidate for president.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

WE WILL GIVE WISE MEN

A Golden Opportunity

To Save Some Money on Seasonable Fall Merchandise

Our buyer just returned from New York, and he found that unusual conditions exist in the New York market, namely, the unrest and disturbances among New England mills, reported nearly every day in the public press, resulted in cancellation of enormous quantities of goods when not delivered on time to the retailer. The goods which should have been delivered to the retailer six weeks ago have just now reached the wholesaler. Consequently manufacturers in New York are only too glad to get the bare cost from these lots. Our buyer purchased several lots at very low prices, so that we can offer at the very beginning of the Fall season new clean merchandise from our best makers---with a guarantee of satisfaction---at prices not to be equalled again this season.

A Word About Brass Beds

A great number of people have hesitated in the past in buying a Brass Bed because they tarnished so easily. Finger marks and fly specks rendered them unsightly. Iron beds with brass trimmings have been growing unpopular on account of the brass tarnishing.

All that trouble is a thing of the past—We Absolutely Guarantee All Our Brass Beds and Brass Trimmings on Iron Beds Not To Tarnish.

You haven't heard anything said about this wonderful discovery of the "Bakelite" Lacquer that prevents all brass goods from tarnishing because all dealers are loaded with Brass and Brass Trimmed Beds that have the old lacquer that wears off. But wait till "Bakelite" becomes better known and Brass and Brass Trimmed Iron Beds that have not the brass protected with "Bakelite" won't sell at any price.

We were fortunate to close out every Brass and Iron Bed before we moved into our new store, and just as the big metal bed manufacturers, after five years of hard tests, have begun to use "Bakelite."

A word about the inventor of this process—(We take this from pamphlet): "Dr. L. H. Baekland has a record of more than a century of research in the field of pure and applied chemistry. To those outside of the chemical profession, he is more particularly known through his inventive and industrial achievements in the industry of so-called gaslight photographic papers, of which 'Velox' is the best known representative."

So you see Dr. Baekland is no faker. He is so careful of his reputation as a chemist that although he discovered this substance (it is not a compound) in 1907, he would not jeopardize his reputation till "Bakelite" had received five years' test. It has proven all that he anticipated. This store, always in search of something better to attract and retain your patronage, has bought and offers for sale only Metal Beds that have the Guarantee Lacquer and will not tarnish. Rub them as much as you want. Wash them with ammonia or alcohol. The lacquer won't come off. And they cost no more than formerly. In fact, through our large purchase for the new store, and having no rent to pay, we sell them cheaper than formerly. It will pay you in more ways than one to trade at

Was Captured by Baden at the Grand Circuit Meet in Columbus Yesterday

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 2.—The Brown stallion Baden, which has won more money this season than any other trotter racing, captured himself yesterday at the driving park from the disgraced at his defeat last week in the rich Hunter stake by winning the $5000 Buckeye, event for 212 trotters in the fastest race of any of the rich stakes this season.

Dave Hall, his competitor of last week, was not only beaten, but finished sixth, not being a contender at any time.

A new world's record was established for three-year-old pacing colts by the Nebraska youngster, Impetuous Palmer, which negotiated a mile against time in 2:04.

The speculation yesterday was very heavy, especially on the Buckeye stake, in which some recent pools for the meeting were said.

That portion of the racegoers who speculate did not take the defeat of Baden last week seriously, figuring it a fluke, and the New Jersey gelding was installed first choice for the Buckeye in $250,000. The favorite, Impetuous Palmer, was at $100,000, and the third, composed of Ruth McGrover, Peter Bay and The Wanderer, $50,000.

The first heat was a battle all the way between the two colts, but Baden, the former holder of the best time in the world, was beaten by a head in 2:15. A new record for the stallion and the fastest mile trotted this season by any of the stake horses.

There was considerable play on Oakdale for the second heat and he was an early contender, but failed in the stretch drive. Goetz, 1911 champion, was the first to go, but was beaten by the second in the favorite in 2:04.1, Ruth McGrover, taking third and Dave Hall fourth.

In the final heat Cox had the fast, but erratic Esther W. leading very fast and had them all beaten but Baden at the stretch. The pair came the last eighth very fast, Esther W. being at the head of the stallion when he flashed by the wire in 2:05.1.

Eva Cord, from the Goetz stable, won the 211 trot in straight heats. There was a great battle between Deanecker, Robert Miller and Thistle Breeze for the second money, which went to the Cox stable.

The sixth heat in the 211 trot, carried over from Thursday, was won by Dr. Wilkes in a close finish, with the favorite Jean Arion.

Deanecker, the Iowa racer, was first choice for the 215 pace bet, but was usually beaten the last two races, was the first to go, but was beaten by the second in the Cox stable. The favorite, Jean Arion, was at $100,000, and the third, composed of Ruth McGrover, Peter Bay and The Wanderer, $50,000.

Impetuous Palmer, the Nebraska colt which has been racing in the pacing stakes, was second to beat the world's fastest colt, but was beaten by the second in the Cox stable. The favorite, Jean Arion, was at $100,000, and the third, composed of Ruth McGrover, Peter Bay and The Wanderer, $50,000.

Four Members of the Giants Who Will be Feared by the Red Sox in World's Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Everything is in readiness for the start of the world's series here Oct. 3. The New York and Boston teams are evenly matched, and hard looked for struggles are expected. Local baseball experts figure the Giants have an advantage in the base running, the managerial line and that of having been through a world's series campaign. According to these critics, this should prove a boon in a battle among youngsters on both sides. One thing is certain—New York is not likely to lose its nerve in the coming series, and Boston may. The Giants proved their gameness against the Athletics last fall. The Red Sox have never been known to show the white feather and will not likely start at this late day. Altogether it looks like the best world's series of history from every angle. The Giants have a great collection of bag smelters in Doyle, Murray, Devore, Snodgrass, Merkle and Herzog. They are among the first ten sack pliffers in the National league. "Big Chief" Meyers, the Giants' backstop, is also much feared. The big Indian is the most dangerous batsman on the team and is expected to shine in the championship games.

WON THE VANDERBILT RACE CORBETT HAS RALLIED

De Palma Averaged 69 Miles an Hour and Took First Place in the Big Event

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 2.—Ralph De Palma, driving a Mercedes car, yesterday won the eighth running of the classic Vanderbilt cup automobile race from a field of eight starters over the new Wauwatosa road course. His time was 41.20 minutes for a distance of 259 miles, 271 feet. This was at a speed of 62 miles an hour, or five miles per hour faster than last year's Vanderbilt at Savannah.

De Palma won by 12.25 seconds from Eugene Hughes, driving a Mercer-Special, after Teddie Tetzlaff had led through the first half of the race and then had been forced to withdraw because of engine trouble. Spencer Wishart, with a Mercedes car, was third and Gil Anderson, driving a Stutz, finished fourth. Only these four cars finished.

Ralph Mulford was eliminated early in the race by a minor accident. Tetzlaff went out after he had acted as pace-maker for the first 150 miles, for a late reason and Gil Anderson and Harry Nelson never had a chance.

Tetzlaff finished the feature of the first portion of the race, frequently averaging a speed of 5 miles per hour for repeated laps. He drove the fastest lap of the day, 61.18, for the 155-mile course.

As regards the equipment, it was the same story over again for De Palma's car was equipped with Mercedes, the same type of tires which has been on the winners of previous Vanderbilt and Grand Prize races year after year.

A crowd estimated at more than 60,000 people was ranged around the course at advantageous points for sightseeing. The race was run without serious accident, although it had been said that the course was dangerous.

In addition to the costly Vanderbilt trophy, De Palma won $3000 in cash from the promoters of the race meeting, and a large sum from the manufacturers of accessories.

Hughes, for winning second position in the race, got $2000 and manufacturers' prizes. Wishart took $1000 as his end of the purse, and Gil Anderson won $500 as fourth money.

De Palma's victory was achieved under pressure that would have discouraged a younger race driver. Paced by the great speed of Tetzlaff in the first 150 miles, De Palma refused to take any chances. Each time that the condition of his tires or engine indicated a necessary pause, De Palma made the stop. He stopped four times for new tires, oil and water in the first 150 miles as against Tetzlaff's one stop for the same distance.

Later in the race, when Eugene Hughes was within less than a minute of him to the end, De Palma did not increase his steady 69 to 70-mile-an-hour speed, although Hughes was cutting down the distance from four to eight seconds on each lap.

De Palma was kept closely in touch with developments in the big contest by the attendants and team manager in his pit.

Ex-Champion Has a Chance to Recover

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—James J. Corbett, once champion heavyweight pugilist, is in a hospital after an operation.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—The Boston Red Sox had a fine workout yesterday on the Athletics' grounds. Manager Stahl paid special attention to batting practice. The workout lasted a full hour, with Connie Mack and several of the Athletics enjoying the work from front seats in the grandstand.

Steve Yerkes came up from his home in Millville, N. J., and returned to his home after the practice.

Pres. McAleer arrived here from Washington yesterday morning, and will return with the team Saturday night. The members of the Boston team accepted an invitation to one of the theatres last evening.

Baseball seems dead in the Quaker City. The downfall of the White Elephants has spread deep gloom over the minds of Billy Penn. It was all "doomed" that Connie Mack would land a third pennant. No one dreamed that Boston had a look-in, and the Quakers are still trying to figure out how it all happened.

Many loyal Quaker fans are taking their medicine as they should, while others claim that Harry Davis' absence caused the trouble. The local people have blamed about every one connected with the Elephant troupe with the direct cause of the downfall, while the fact of the matter was that Boston had the best team in the league from the start.

Both local teams have been disappointed here this year, and will play a consolation series starting next Monday. The fans are taking no interest in the meeting.

Nothing Doing, Said Bush

Pres. McAleer made no effort to secure a block of seats at the Polo grounds for the Boston Royal Rooters and their brass band, but Pres. John T. Bush would make no reservations. It will be a case of first come first served in New York, with no reservation of any kind of seats sold before the day of the game.

"Wild Bill" Donovan, the famous old Detroit pitcher, is spending a few days in this city and called on the Boston players yesterday. Donovan witnessed several games at the Polo grounds and had some interesting dope on the Giants.

Pres. McAleer saw two games in New York a short time ago. He witnessed the series last fall and has sized up the Giants. McAleer is a keen student of the game and players.

Most veteran critics figure that Matthews will be the hardest to beat, yet the Red Sox are an offhand lot of batsmen and have no choice when it comes to facing pitchers.

No one dreamed that Boston had a look-in, and the Quakers are still trying to figure out how it all happened.

Many loyal Quaker fans are taking their medicine as they should, while others claim that Harry Davis' absence caused the trouble. The local people have blamed about every one connected with the Elephant troupe with the direct cause of the downfall, while the fact of the matter was that Boston had the best team in the league from the start.

Both local teams have been disappointed here this year, and will play a consolation series starting next Monday. The fans are taking no interest in the meeting.

Nothing Doing, Said Bush

Pres. McAleer made no effort to secure a block of seats at the Polo grounds for the Boston Royal Rooters and their brass band, but Pres. John T. Bush would make no reservations. It will be a case of first come first served in New York, with no reservation of any kind of seats sold before the day of the game.

"Wild Bill" Donovan, the famous old Detroit pitcher, is spending a few days in this city and called on the Boston players yesterday. Donovan witnessed several games at the Polo grounds and had some interesting dope on the Giants.

Pres. McAleer saw two games in New York a short time ago. He witnessed the series last fall and has sized up the Giants. McAleer is a keen student of the game and players.

Most veteran critics figure that Matthews will be the hardest to beat, yet the Red Sox are an offhand lot of batsmen and have no choice when it comes to facing pitchers.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—The Boston Red Sox had a fine workout yesterday on the Athletics' grounds. Manager Stahl paid special attention to batting practice. The workout lasted a full hour, with Connie Mack and several of the Athletics enjoying the work from front seats in the grandstand.

Steve Yerkes came up from his home in Millville, N. J., and returned to his home after the practice.

Pres. McAleer arrived here from Washington yesterday morning, and will return with the team Saturday night. The members of the Boston team accepted an invitation to one of the theatres last evening.

Baseball seems dead in the Quaker City. The downfall of the White Elephants has spread deep gloom over the minds of Billy Penn. It was all "doomed" that Connie Mack would land a third pennant. No one dreamed that Boston had a look-in, and the Quakers are still trying to figure out how it all happened.

The Garden, on the Grounds Surrounding the Lowell Jail is a Most Attractive Place

GARDEN AT LOWELL JAIL, IN THORNDIKE STREET

One has not truly seen Lowell until he has visited the grounds of the Middlesex Co. jail on Thorndike street, for the flower garden there forms one of the most strikingly attractive contributions to the beauty of the city that can be desired. While the accompanying photograph will give the reader some limited idea of the wonders of the place, yet it comes a great way toward adequately portraying the actual beauty of the various delicately united plants which the garden contains.

This delightful exemplification of the art of landscape gardening, about which Mr. Knebel kindly escorted a representative of The Sun today, is the fruit of the labor of Captain Atkinson, a man who possesses a remarkably broad knowledge of gardening in all its phases and who has been at the institution for eight years. When Captain Atkinson first came to the Middlesex county jail to take up a position there, this beautiful feature of the grounds was a mere patch of ground and through his skill and love of the work, he made it a reality and turned what was an ordinary lawn into one of the most attractive displays of plants of which Lowell can boast. Mr. Atkinson is skilled in detail the nature of the different species of growth which the spot contains and he is familiar not alone with the more common names of the plants but with their scientific names and botanical significance as well.

Viewed from Thorndike street, the garden affords an impressive view to passersby. About the entire grounds is a strikingly pretty background of shrubbery, climatic, and hollyhocks. In the very center is a large circular bed of red geraniums surrounded by a border of feverfew. Near the fence are two clematis and a six-pointed star between them. Geraniums of different red make up the centers of these and the outer portions of the star comprise athenasura and sweet allium, or "little gem." On either side of this display is seen a long bed of California petunias and verbena and directly in back of the star and toward the center of the enclosure is a long hillback on which are the letters "M. C. J." with a representation of the old fashioned style of handcuffs and a large key, all of these being formed of thyme.

There are many other beds of various flowers in wonderful array and all are arranged so as to produce the best possible effect. There are two raised beds containing certain plants and petunias, and among the more prominent plants being in many cases more than six feet long and these add no slight attractiveness to the general beauty of the place. In addition to the many other species of vegetation are rubber plants, hydrangeas and innumerable others.

Most wonderful of all is the garden of 100 rose bushes in which are included all the most and most valuable variety of roses, even the well known American Beauty. The different beds are laid out to represent different things. There are stars, crescents and many other forms which defy description.

This beauty spot receives the most careful attention on the part of Captain Atkinson and his men and furthermore, all the different plants which the garden contains are "labeled" and preserved in the hothouses by the gardeners and not only do they beautify the grounds of the institution but moreover it is from this place that the ravages of the front are noticeable and are taken now to the month of October when vegetation is generally supposed to give evidence of withering up, the place is extremely pleasing.

The hothouses are equal if not superior to any others in the state and are the objects of the best of care. They contain many rare specimens of foreign plants, among which is one from China, which blossoms every day in the year. Then there is the sensitive plant, a curiosity of its kind, which closes up when one touches it. A large tank in which are pond lilies and snowflake lilies is one of the most attractive features. About the bottom of the structure is a large growth of the vine known commonly as the "Wandering Jew" and this serves to keep the place moist as well as to beautify the surroundings. There are lemon and orange trees, and one of the former contains a lemon which weighs more than two pounds, and among the more prominent foreign specimens is a Chinese metal plant which presents an odd appearance.

Captain Atkinson takes great pride in his garden and well he may for it is truly worthy of his efforts. It is a great factor in making Lowell a beautiful and it is due in a great degree to the garden that the appearance of the jail is in keeping with the attractiveness of the other public buildings about the city.

The vegetable gardens will come very near to supplying the inmates of the jail for the winter and very little purchasing will have to be done in this line. It is thus that keeping the inmates so successful in making the expenses of running the institution as light as possible and it is here that even from the more practical view of the economist that the jail garden is so important a factor.

With the coming of the fall season the beauty of the jail oasis of flowers will be seen to disappear and even now the ravages of the front are noticeable and are taken now to the month of October when vegetation is generally supposed to give evidence of withering up, the place is extremely pleasing.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Attended the Fair of the Brocton Agricultural Society Today and Was Greeted by 100,000 People

BROCKTON, Oct. 3.—President Taft arrived in Brockton today to attend the fair of the Brocton Agricultural society at 12:50. He was met at the Commercial clubhouse by a committee of the society, and ladies who welcomed Mrs. Taft, and Mayor Harry C. Howard.

After lunch the party proceeded by automobile to the grounds of the society where they were escorted by a solid band of 100 pieces around the race track. Seventh company, C. A. C. regular army, and 10th company, C. A. C. M. V. M., acted as escort. The procession was headed by mounted police. The president was guarded by secret service men. Major Holmes was the president's personal attendant. Lines of police and members of the Seventh company guarded the president's entrance to his box in the grandstand.

One hundred thousand people extended welcome, the grounds being packed to their capacity, a record crowd. The president and Mrs. Taft left for Beverly at 4:30.

COL. ROOSEVELT

Decides to Take a Rest and Orders That No One Be Permitted to See Him

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Col. Roosevelt shut himself off from the outside world today to rest at Sagamore Hill. He gave instructions that no one should be permitted to see him and that no messages should be taken to him. He spent the day riding and playing tennis.

Col. Roosevelt had nothing to say regarding George R. Sheldon's testimony before the Clapp committee yesterday that corporations controlled the major portion of the republican campaign fund in 1904, reserving his comment on campaign contributions until he should appear before the committee tomorrow. He plans to leave for New York late this afternoon and at midnight he will start for Washington.

Contract Awarded

The contract for 100 gross lead pencils, 5000 pencils of white paper, 500 packages of white paper, 100 packages of white drawing paper, and 10,000 composition blanks, required by the city, has been awarded G. C. Prince & Son.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE IN LAWRENCE

Number of Operatives Resumed Positions—Haywood to Have a Body Guard

LAWRENCE, Oct. 3.—The 24-hour textile strike which ended Tuesday morning in this city, is to stay ended. The central committee of the I. W. W. last night decided this and after a closed session Archie Adamson gave out the following statement: "The central committee has concluded to keep those in the mills that are at work and that those who have been discriminated against shall stay at home quietly. Everybody will, however, prepare for action when such action becomes necessary."

Unless the workers ignore their own committee, this means peace.

Twice yesterday the continuation of peace was threatened. The fact of the postponement of the Eitor trial to Oct. 14 alone was enough to set some of the hater heads to declaring "another delay, we'll all strike."

Then the fact that some who went to the mills Tuesday could get work had also caused a good deal of strike talk.

The I. W. W. was busy yesterday. Haywood and Haslewood were in Salem all day, concerned with the Eitor trial. Carlo Trecca and Miss Flynn went to Haverhill, and William Yates was left practically alone to run the Lawrence machine.

Last night, however, all was peace and peace with the prospect of continuance for awhile.

Not an Arrest

Not an arrest was made yesterday in connection with the textile troubles and the state police feel so sure that the disturbances are all over that all but Officers Macksey and Eustace have been withdrawn.

A Lawrence moving picture theatre put on its screen last night a series of pictures showing Sunday's riot, Monday's strike meeting at the "Lore" and scenes outside Lawrence and Salem courthouses, the latter made when Eitor, Giovanniotti and Caruso were being taken in. As Eitor's well remembered smile was flashed onto the screen the house broke into rapturous applause.

Peace May Be Permanent

It was said last night that boards of trade in other cities have been offering inducements to some of the mills to leave Lawrence as a solution of the industrial problem.

Last night the various nationalities held meetings in their halls to discuss the wisdom of calling another strike. The ground taken was that there has been discrimination against workers. The Italians met in Lexington hall, the Poles in the organization headquarters of the organization yesterday. Haywood addressed this meeting, but did not deal directly with the question, for a meeting of the central committee was to handle that a little later.

Haywood spoke in his usual vein, reminding the workers again that they were being ground to death slowly in the mills, to buy luxuries for their owners. He brought the news that European labor has taken a great interest in the Lawrence situation. In London, meetings are being held in Trafalgar square to tell the tale of Lawrence; in Italy there has been a great organization of protest; in Sweden and in France, a boycott is being fostered against American-made goods.

Operatives Taken Back

Surface appearances indicate that industrial peace prevailed in Lawrence when the textile mills began operations today. There were no disturbances of any kind when the gates were thrown open to the workers and there was every prospect that the day would be uneventful.

Some of the mills took back many of the operatives who were refused work yesterday because of their participation in Monday's 24-hour strike in protest against the imprisonment of Eitor and Giovanniotti. There still remained about 1800 employees who considered themselves locked out on account of their activity in the Eitor demonstration. The leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World were undecided as to what would be done to protect the unemployed operatives but for the present they will be supported by the organization. The disposition of the matter is expected to be made at a mass meeting next Sunday.

W. D. Haywood was in Lawrence today. The industrial leaders said that Haywood had consented to a bodyguard after receiving threatening letters.

THE TURKS RETIRED

After Attacking the Montenegrin Guards

CETTINJE, Montenegro, Oct. 2.—A detachment of Turkish frontier guards today attacked the Montenegrin guards on the border in the Berana district. The Montenegrins did not reply to the firing and the Turks then retired.

The order for a general mobilization in Montenegro has been received with enthusiasm throughout the country. King Nicholas and his ministers have received a number of telegrams urging them to begin hostilities immediately against Turkey.

CHARLES E. FOREMAN

Has Been Excused From Jury Duty in the "Dynamite Cases" in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 2.—Chas. E. Foreman, Muncie, Ind., today was excused from jury duty in the "dynamite cases" because he had formed an opinion as to the guilt of the defendants.

"I formed my opinion because right behind my house at Muncie was another empty house in which the McNamara and Orrie McManigal stored dynamite and nitro-glycerine," said Foreman.

"I couldn't help forming an impression after that. It came too near home."

That was the vacant house where, according to McManigal, the explosives were hidden and where children used to break in to play.

Bryan On Stump

CONCORDIA, Kas., Oct. 3.—Large crowds came to Concordia today to hear an address by W. J. Bryan. The schedule for the Nebraska's second day in Kansas called for speeches here and at Morgantown, Clay Center, Junction City, Abilene, Solomon and Salina.

Gov. Wilson Pleased

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 3.—Governor Wilson commended the nomination of Congressman Sulzer for governor and Martin Glynn for lieutenant governor of New York in a statement issued from his train.

"The freedom of action and of choice which the convention exercised must afford every democrat real satisfaction," he said.

A varied vocal and instrumental program was given, and the large gathering and 25 handsome prizes were awarded to the winners. Miss Victoria Leclair was delighted over the success of the event and expressed her thanks to her many friends who helped her.

DR. WILEY SCORES ROOSEVELT

Says That He Blocked Pure Food Work as President—He Also Criticises President Taft

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 2.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, formerly chief of the federal bureau of chemistry and government pure food expert, made his debut as a democratic campaign speaker here last night.

His speech was devoted largely to an attack upon Col. Roosevelt, who, he said, was falsely claiming credit for the passage of the Pure Food and Drug act.

Declaring that he had remained loyal to the republican party for many years, Dr. Wiley said: "I now believe that the republican party, as at present constituted, is so completely subjugated by the dollar, so permeated by the canker of Big Business as its only god, that only disastrous defeat can ever restore it to health."

"In my own case the chief cause of breaking away from my long political affiliations is directly due to the attitude of two republican administrations, viz. those of Roosevelt and Taft, to the Food and Drug act."

Wasn't Worth Mentioning

While the agitation for the Pure Food law was in progress, Dr. Wiley continued, "No president of the United States and no cabinet officer ever said a favorable word for the enactment of this law—except on one or two occasions in a most perfunctory way. Mr. Roosevelt, in one of his messages, alluded to the act in a short paragraph without acknowledgment. The secretary of agriculture, on a few occasions in his recent communications to the president, called attention to the agitation going on."

"In the autumn of 1904 Senator Henry Burn, believing that a winning chance was at hand, asked President Roosevelt to recommend the passage of the act in his message."

"The president replied that it was of so little consequence that it wasn't worth mentioning."

Dr. Wiley spoke of difficulties he had encountered in enforcing the law, of the appointment of Associate Chemist Dunlap and "the growth of Solicitor McCabe's power." Finally, he said, to keep out of the courts, the opponents of the law appealed to Sec. Wilson and President Roosevelt.

"Shortly thereafter," he continued, "I was asked by the secretary of agriculture to go with him to the president's office. Solicitor McCabe and Associate Chemist Dunlap were also of the party. There we met Mr. Justice of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. Grover, representing Williams brothers of Detroit, and James S. Sherman, at that time a member of the house of representatives, appearing in the interest of Sherman brothers of Chicago, N. Y."

"They and spent the previous evening with the president, showing him how Wiley was ruining republican business. This particular republican business consisted of putting benzene of soda and saccharin into human foods. The president stated the object of the meeting and summarized the conversation. These business men had held with him the night before."

"He then turned to the secretary of agriculture and said, 'Mr. Wilson, do you think the addition of benzene of soda in foods is injurious?' The secretary answered 'Yes.'"

"Then turning to me, he said, 'Dr. Wiley, do you think the use of benzene of soda in foods is injurious?' I answered, 'I do not think, I know. I have tried it on healthy young men and it made them ill.'"

"The same question was asked of Solicitor McCabe and Associate Dunlap. They both answered in the affirmative.

"Then, turning to the republican representatives of business and striking the table a ringing blow with his fist, the president said: 'Gentlemen, if this drug is injurious you shall not put it in foods.'"

"Had matters stopped there there would have been no Remsen board, but at this juncture Mr. Sherman interposed. But Mr. President, how about the saccharin? My drug saved 34000 last year by using saccharin instead of sugar."

"I unfortunately butted in at this juncture and said, 'Yes, Mr. President, but everyone who eats these products is deceived, believing he is eating sugar, and moreover the health is threatened by this drug.'"

"Turning upon me in sudden anger and fierce voice, the president said: 'Anybody who says saccharin is injurious is an idiot. Dr. Wiley gives it to me every day. Having thus had my mental classification officially defined, I withdrew.'"

"Two days thereafter the Remsen board was gazetted. It was received with a shout of acclaim from the throat of every adulterator and misbrander of foods in the land. Instead of having to go to the courts to defend their nefarious practices, they were now the wards of the Great Father of Washington, and from that time to this have continued their activities in poisoning and defrauding the people.

Charging that he had been directed by the secretary of agriculture to make no reference in his public addresses to the possible injurious effect of the drugs mentioned, and that upon the appointment of the Remsen board, he was directed to stop his experiments upon young men, Dr. Wiley declared:

"Who committed this unpardonable sin against the conscience and health of the people? The great tribune of the people, Theodore Roosevelt, and his cabinet officers. I am naturally not greatly enthused with the prospect of the continuation of this crime against humanity by the return of Theodore Roosevelt to supreme power."

"Roosevelt is just as apt to support the bad as the good. He is not guided by principle, but by impulse—and he is essentially dangerous to free institutions. He who disfranchises the men that Abraham Lincoln died to set free is an apostate from the party which honored him with the presidency."

Of the appointment of Associate Chemist Dunlap by Mr. Roosevelt, the speaker said: "In order to appoint this interloper to his high position, the president of the United States had suspended the civil service law. 'I was informed in writing that Dr. Dunlap was not my equal, but my superior, and I was directed to furnish him with everything he asked for, and that no letter or other business connected with the bureau of chemistry relating to food and drugs, could go without the initials of Dunlap and McCabe.'"

"Thus, by acquaintance of the secretary of agriculture and by direction of the president of the United States, two great laws, each intended to protect the people, were set aside to place in supreme power two of the most malicious men that ever disgraced the public service."

"When the legislative committee of the American Medical association went to the White House to ask that this action be rescinded," Dr. Wiley declared, "President Roosevelt became violently angry and, livid with rage, said, 'You folks keep your bridges on.'"

After telling the story of the "What Is Whisky?" investigation and prosecution which were pending when Mr. Roosevelt went out of office, Dr. Wiley said: "President Taft lost no time in utterly repudiating the only point on which Mr. Roosevelt had upheld the law. He directed Solicitor General Powers to hold a trial, summon and examine witnesses, etc."

"This led Justice Burian, a few days after the completion of this unholy work, to say to me, 'What's this I hear, they have been holding court at the White House?' I replied, 'Mr. Justice, you know as much about this matter as I do—you have read the papers.' To which he responded, 'Well, well, it's about time this question was coming up to my court.'"

In most of the whisky cases, the speaker said, appeals were pending when President Taft was inaugurated. "President Taft," he added, "has prided himself on his confidence in and support of the judiciary. Yet, knowing these cases were pending, he stooped from his high office to do a favor to the worst lot of adulterers in Christendom and ordered the whole matter dropped from the dockets."

"It is impossible, therefore, that I should have confidence in the coming conduct of these two candidates, no matter how profusely they may promise to be good and work for the common welfare. By their fruits (not promises) shall ye know them. And these fruits have been scabby, worm-eaten and rotten at the core."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

When a present day opera or musical comedy has a run in New York or Chicago of twenty or thirty weeks, a great hullabaloo is made. Contrast this with the record of Balfie's ballad opera "The Bohemian Girl" with its almost seventy years of continuous popularity in the United States and in various European countries. This most popular of all to be presented at the Opera House on Saturday, Oct. 5, matinee and night, by the Aborn Opera company. The present version admits the introduction of a troupe of whirling acrobats, horses, monkeys, chickens, etc., all of which are said to be employed with telling effect. A special orchestra is an important addition to this season's company.

CREATORS AND HIS BAND

Hello BHI! Are you helping to boom the building fund benefit concert to be given by the Opera House at the box office of the Opera House at 9 o'clock. If you can't be there, get a "proxy" to hold your place. This is the usual course of procedure when Gus Hill's musical comedy, fashioned after the style of the famous cartoons, comes to town.

"MUTT AND JEFF"

Get in line early Friday morning. Why? Don't you know? The seat sale of "Mutt and Jeff" opens at the box office of the Opera House at 9 o'clock. If you can't be there, get a "proxy" to hold your place. This is the usual course of procedure when Gus Hill's musical comedy, fashioned after the style of the famous cartoons, comes to town.

Keith's Theatre

"In the Shadows," the waltz number given by Herb Webster, Jr., at the Keith theatre, this week is proving a great success. The song hit of "The Maid and the Prince," a side splitting musical comedy. Fifteen persons appear in the play. The fun is wholesale and there is plenty of it. Robert Henry Rodgo and Julia Nash purvey two delightful little acts, replete with clever characterization. The Red Sisters are whirling dancers, who supply plenty of acrobatic features, and Peppino on a remarkable musical. Others on the bill are Gertrude Everett and Comedienne Tom. Good seats remain. Phone 28.

The Playhouse

A laugh for every minute of the play's progress is assured the patrons who attend next week's attraction at The Playhouse. The piece, "The Dictator's Three-Act Comedy," "Before and After," is among the "cleverest" things written by this clever of comedians. The fact that this is the first comedy in which The Drama Players have appeared since their coming to Lowell should interest the many who are anxious to see how the members handle the more humorous situations of a light piece.

Merrimack Square Theatre

The bill at the Merrimack Square theatre this week has been arranged with a view of appealing as much as possible to the little folks. Marie Horton & Co. in an amusing comedy, "Chester Bonner with a brace of songs well sung. The Countess De Lafayette in a musical offering are all good, but it is The Countess De Lafayette who will be the best liked of

WORLD'S SERIES TICKETS

Delivery of Them Began in Boston Today

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Delivery of world's series reserve seat tickets for Boston games began today, 24 hours earlier than previously expected. Notices were mailed to fortunate applicants last night to call on the club quarters for the tickets that have been allotted to them. The tickets plan to have the distribution continue from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. every weekday until the opening of the home games.

The temporary seating arrangements have been completed and the field has been put in the best possible shape. The diamond has been regraded and heavy rollers have been run over the infield and baselines until the surface is as smooth as a table. The big canvas covers have been thrown over the tunnel, not to be removed until Monday morning when the Red Sox go to the grounds for a workout before starting for New York in the afternoon.

The groundkeeper will as soon as the team leaves get his men to work again and have the field in perfect condition for the second game in the series, which, barring interference by the weather, will be played here next Wednesday.

Receipts Will Reach $80,000
NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—It is estimated that the receipts for the opening game in the world series here next Tuesday will exceed $80,000. The highwater mark last year was $77,000, but it was charged that many seats which fell into the hands of speculators remained unsold. Under the new arrangements it is figured that all of the 25,000 seats will be taken and there will be standing room for a few thousand more in the broad promenade in the rear of the grandstand. The combination will get to it that the rules and regulations of the fire department are strictly obeyed so that the aisles and exits will be kept clear.

Workmen were busy today strengthening the open stand which is of wood, with the idea of guaranteeing safety to the record crowd that will see the opening game from that point.

Secretary Rejlander of the National League was entirely pleased today with the arrangements for the sale of tickets. His friends on the reserved seats already allotted show that the national commission has reserved 10,000 seats, the New York National League club stockholders players and officials 1500, players and others connected with other baseball clubs 215 seats.

All of these reservations were paid for before 6 o'clock last evening, the time limit by the commission. The remaining reserved seats, about 4000 for each game, will be placed on open sale next Monday, not more than two tickets being allowed on a single purchase. The 20,000 unsold seats, 15,000 at $2 each and $17,000 at $2 each—will not go on sale until the morning of the game.

YOUNG BRIDE MISSING

Husband is Anxious to Locate Her

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—William W. Miller, 19, of 21 Milford street, is searching widely for his 16-year-old bride, who ran away from home Tuesday morning. A slight quarrel arose Tuesday morning between the pair, and Mrs. Miller threatened to run away. They "made up," however, she begged her husband to go to the theatre in the afternoon, saying she did not feel well enough to accompany him as was their custom. When Miller returned he found his wife had gone, leaving a note which read:

"I haven't gone to get out of your trouble. I've gone because I had to. Be sure you take good care of the dog. You will get along all right. And keep away from my mother. If you want to know out of trouble."

The couple met about two weeks ago at the Charvond St. Baptist church, where the girl was a member of the choir and the young man one of the congregation. They were married last April.

The "Administration" Will Not Take Hand In It At All, Says President, Mrs. Scott

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The "administration" will have no candidate to place in nomination as the successor of Mrs. Matthew P. Scott as president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the next annual meeting of that organization in this city next May.

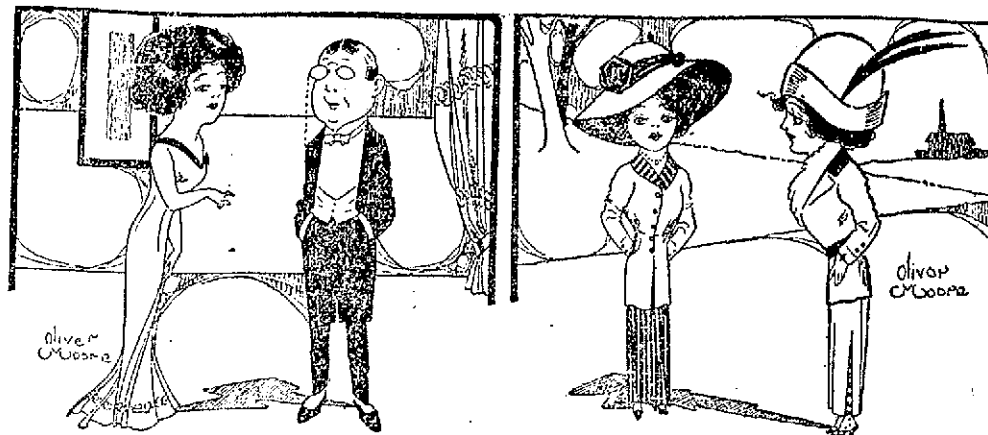

Announcement to this effect was made by Mrs. Scott at a meeting of the national board of the D. A. R. held here yesterday.

Mrs. Scott declared that she would pursue a policy of "hands off" in connection with the selection of her successor and added that the fight for president-general of the society would be an open and free for all battle.

BOY KILLED
He Was Caught Between Freight Elevator and Wall of Building in Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Members of the fire department were called out last evening to take the body of Henry A. Desautelle, a 14-year-old boy, from between the freight elevator and wall of the shaft in the Jewellers' building, while such a crowd gathered outside the building that it took the reserves were called out to disperse it. Women and children were endangered and several women fainted.

The boy was employed to run errands for Cowan & Myers, third floor of the building, and got on the lift in the basement. It had barely started, and the boy was standing near the edge of it near the wall when his head hit the shaft. He was knocked down and his body was drawn into the space between the floor of the elevator and the shaft wall. There it got wedged and the boy was killed at once.
